

BANK DEPOSIT INSURANCE PLAN IN EFFECT TODAY

Chairman of Federal Corporation Declares 97 Cent of Nation's Accounts Are Protected.

13,423 MEMBERS OF NEW AGENCY

Letter Says Elimination of Possibility of Sudden Withdrawals Will Expand Credit.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Roosevelt was informed last night that 97 per cent of the nation's bank depositors would be insured under the new deposit insurance which became effective today.

Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, reported to Mr. Roosevelt that deposits in 13,423 banks would be insured.

He said that only 141 banks had been found ineligible and said that a number of them might be insured by making certain corrections.

Thus, for the first time in American history depositors of sums up to $2500 will be insured against loss. After July 1 this insurance will be increased to $10,000.

All national banks and members of the Federal Reserve system are automatically insured under the new law.

To become members of the Federal insurance plan, non-reserve state banks were required to meet rigid conditions.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation opened its vaults to sound banks requiring additional backing.

By the purchase of capital stock in many banks the Government has perhaps the greatest interest in and control over the banking structure of the nation in recent history.

Letter to Roosevelt.

Cummings' letter to the President, under date of Jan. 1 follows: "Dear Mr. President: Pursuant to your request, I have the honor to submit to you a brief report of the work of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

"We have insured 13,423 banks. The insurance covers deposits up to $2500 until July 1, 1934, when the permanent provisions of the act become operative.

"A careful survey shows that 97 per cent of the total number of depositors are insured in full.

"We found 141 banks ineligible for insurance. A number of them may be insured by making certain corrections. In other words, approximately 1 per cent of the applying banks could not qualify.

This remarkable record was due to the assistance given by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation by the purchase of stock and capital notes.

Effect of Insurance.

"I believe that the insuring of bank deposits will not only be of incalculable value in restoring public confidence in the nation's financial institutions now strengthened, but that it will be of tremendous assistance in hastening the return of prosperity. It will banish the fear of the depositor as to the safety of his money and from the bankers' point of view, the elimination of the possibility of sudden and heavy withdrawals will make possible the expansion of credit for legitimate purposes."

social service and minimum hazard," he added. "Personally I should be glad to see this temporary formula and this $2500 limit substituted for the permanent formula which otherwise becomes effective in July, if our experience during the next few months vindicates our expectations."

serve banks. He issued also the regulations for the coinage of silver under the London International agreement which President Roosevelt ratified.

Upon Morgenthau will fall the task of borrowing new billions of dollars during the spring months to finance the recovery program.

Morgenthau told news men present Treasury policies would be continued. He decided to indicate who might be named Under-Secretary but there were clear indications the post would not go to Ballie, who is in the Treasury on a temporary basis, giving special assistance on the financing problem.

His place in the Treasury has been opposed by Senator Couzens (Rep., Michigan), in letters to both Morgenthau and the President.

Asked about the Treasury changes, Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, the House Democratic floor leader, said:

"I regret that the Secretary's health caused his resignation and I think the President has made an admirable selection as to a successor. Mr. Woodin has a remarkably sound grasp of financial affairs of the country as does Mr. Morgenthau."

Morgenthau became not only Secretary of the Treasury but also a member of the Federal Reserve Board. All Treasury heads are ex officio Reserve Board members. But the Board has ruled this membership extends only to actual Secretaries. Consequently, in his post as Under-Secretary and Acting Secretary since Nov. 17, Morgenthau was unable to meet with the Reserve Board.

The following letters were exchanged by the President and Woodin.

"Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 3, 1933.
"Dear Governor:
"It is with great regret that I am compelled to tender you my resignation as Secretary of the Treasury, to take effect at your convenience any time before Jan. 1."

"The state of my health will not permit me to remain in this position.

"I cannot express what a wrench it is to me to leave your official family and you must know how proud and happy I have been to have served you.

"With great admiration and affection,
"Faithfully yours,
"W. M. WOODIN."

The President's reply, dated Dec. 20, follows:
"Dear Will:
"That you feel you must definitely leave the Treasury post by the end of the year is, of course, a great sorrow to me; but I am even more saddened by the thought that the threat is still living trouble."

CITY MAY MAKE SEPARATE APPEAL FOR FEDERAL AID

title this State to its full share of relief should not only be welcomed but promptly followed by the Governor. "It is time for us to strive together to aid those in distress and for the good of the State and Nation."

Consideration of the Governor's sales tax bill by the Senate, scheduled for this afternoon when the Senate reconvened after a holiday day, was deferred until tomorrow because of the light attendance. A roll call showed 24 of the 34 Senators were present.

The House convened this morning, with about 40 of the 149 members present, but adjourned until tomorrow morning, after a 20-minute session.

Several House members announced they were "hearing from home" on the relief legislation, since the announcement no Federal funds were available for January.

The relief legislation was passed by the House.

Representative Maples of Christian County, read a letter from Fray Johnson of Omark, chairman of the Christian County Relief Committee, urging the Legislature take some action to speed up relief legislation. He said he regretted the Legislature had laid down on the job of furnishing relief funds.

"Your program should not be held up by unscrupulous and designing politicians," Johnson stated in the letter. "It is the duty of American citizens fighting the greatest depression of all times, and any man that stands in its way is a traitor far greater than Benedict Arnold."

PRESIDENT TO READ MESSAGE; CONGRESS CONVENES TOMORROW

Couzens told newspaper men. McNary was equally emphatic in his statement.

Dickinson said the recovery law was "unworkable," not beneficial and has handicapped recovery and had been the greatest aid to monopolies and the consolidation of big business ever imposed upon the country. "It is ruining the little man who is supposed to be protected by the anti-trust laws."

Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), will offer an amendment to the NIRA to restore operation of the anti-trust law.

First Order of Business.
The Senate Democratic Policy Committee today made the Senate's first order of business the liquor tax and District of Columbia liquor regulation bills, in prediction of the granting of power to the President to make reciprocal tariff treaties without Senate ratification.

Senator Robinson, the majority leader, said the administration bill to permit the President to appoint a Governor of Hawaii from the mainland would be abandoned. He indicated the tariff proposal would receive consideration probably after the liquor bills are out of the way. The House will take up all three of these measures first.

White House Conference.
While leaders generally concede that Mr. Roosevelt's wishes will shape the lines of the session, and he apparently was assured at a three-hour White House meeting last night of full Democratic support for a series of budget recommendations, there is indication that free silver college advocates, hoping to make bimetalism a major issue, may thrust this question forward immediately should there be any lull in the starting of the legislative machinery. Meanwhile Republican leaders say they intend to withhold any immediate concentrated party attack upon the President's program.

MAYOR LA GUARDIA HECKLED BY WOMAN

Silences Her at Meeting but Returns Tilt Afterward.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia today encountered his first heckling as Mayor.

LaGuardia and the Board of Estimate were deep in the intricacies of providing $5,000,000 in Federal and city funds for the jobs when a woman, leader of a group of Negro and white demonstrators, stood up and shouted: "You're just a tool of Wall Street. You don't care what you do about starving men and women. Why don't you help the unemployed?"

LaGuardia replied: "That's not so. You're just making a noise. We're doing something."

A little later the woman interrupted again. LaGuardia, gesturing vehemently, turned to T. H. Whitney, local C. W. A. administrator. "Give that lady a job," he shouted. "See if she'll take it. Give every one with her a job."

The woman sat down while the crowded chamber applauded lustily. After the meeting LaGuardia went into an antechamber where the women were standing.

He and the woman, whose name was disclosed as Mrs. Antonette Stewart Pointes, shook fingers at each other and their voices soared to a high pitch.

"You're not fooling me," the Mayor shouted. "I know you. Any man who wants work can get it. We're trying to do everything possible for the women, too. But we must get State legislation. You're not fooling anybody by making a lot of noise."

"You're not here to bulldoze us," Mrs. Pointes screamed. "You're our servant."

The next time you come to the board meeting you'll be put out," said LaGuardia, walking away.

The woman hurried after him such phrases as "low bully" and "bulldozer" while her companions wept and screamed hysterically.

Mr. Roosevelt's policies would be upheld, including his monetary program. If he or other congressional leaders had knowledge of any new move by the President, they did not indicate it. Robinson conceded there would be debate of the President's monetary program, but asserted that the President's leadership was the only leadership possible.

"It is expected," he said, "that the President's monetary policy will cause discussion during the session, since the feeling being, as gathered by the chairman, that there is a single course which commends itself."

"There has already come a marked improvement in economic conditions," the President has used the extraordinary (monetary) powers granted him with notable discretion and effectiveness. His leadership has fully justified itself, and it is recognized that there must come still further advance."

Robinson added to his statement: "I believe it is proper to say that the Federal Government cannot supply all the credit necessary to restore normal price levels and living conditions. Its activities must be supplemented by a quickening of private initiative and enterprise."

"Private credit institutions must function more freely and to the extent that this occurs the problems of national legislation pertaining to economic subjects will be simplified."

He said indications were that the "number of important measures to be advanced would not be so great as to prevent a conclusion of the session at a comparatively early date."

On the House side, Speaker Rainey has expressed himself equally certain that the President will be supported throughout.

The Speaker, Rainey has termed the President's present silver buying program "a small bite out of the cherry," predicting action to further elevate the white metal unless the President comes out definitely against it.

DEMOCRATS SHAKE UP SENATE COMMITTEES

Three Chairmanships Changed—Wagner Moved to Head Public Lands Group.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Several important shifts in Senate committee assignments were approved at a meeting of the Democratic Steering Committee yesterday.

Senator Wagner of New York will head the Public Lands Committee; McAdoo of California will take Wagner's place at the head of the Patents Committee; and Adams of Colorado will be chairman of the Irrigation and Reclamation Committee. The first two shifts are contingent on Wagner's acceptance. If he accepts, it will be the first time for many years that the Public Lands Committee has been headed by an Easterner. Wagner is the ranking Democrat on the committee.

Other committee assignments approved included assignments to the new Democratic members, O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Hatch of New Mexico. O'Mahoney was assigned to Appropriations, Postoffice and Post Roads, Indian Affairs, Irrigation and Reclamation; Hatch to Agriculture and Forestry, Interstate Commerce, Irrigation and Reclamation, Privileges and Elections, Public Lands and Indian Affairs.

Miscellaneous assignments included: Dietrich of Illinois to Judiciary in place of Naval Affairs; Black of Alabama to Priding; Bachman of Tennessee to Audit and Control; Bankhead of Alabama to Appropriations; and Coolidge of Massachusetts to Indian Affairs.

69 PER CENT OF TAXES PAID, PENALTY GOES IN EFFECT

Collections of 1933 general taxes in St. Louis so far tabulated amount to $19,787,052, or 69 per cent of the levy of $28,675,584. The unpaid balance is delinquent and will be subject to a penalty of 1 per cent a month.

There were 10 bundles of mail, containing tax remittances, in Collector Koehn's office today, to be opened and tabulated, and some additional receipts remaining to be credited. Mail postmarked up to midnight Sunday will be credited without penalty. It is estimated the non-delinquent receipts will be increased by several hundred thousand dollars when all credits are entered.

In comparison, nondelinquent tax payments for 1932, received up to Dec. 31 of that year, amounted to $23,111,501, or 72 per cent of the levy of $32,645,680. By last Oct. 1 the rate of delinquency in 1932 taxes had been reduced to $4,259,197, and since then a considerable additional sum has been paid.

HEARING IN BANKRUPTCY SUIT AGAINST PRALLE BAKERY CO.

Testimony Is That Supplies Were Given Without Payment to Pralle Restaurant.

Testimony that supplies of the Pralle Bakery Co. were given without record or payment to the Pralle Restaurant, owned by the President of the bakery, was given in Bankruptcy Court today.

The President, William Pralle, readily admitted that the restaurant got supplies from the bakery, but said he had ordered payment made. He added that the supplies, consisting of bread, eggs, lard and sugar, were furnished in "very small amounts."

At the inquiry, conducted by Victor Packman, attorney for a creditor claiming $3879, it was developed that Pralle owned the Industrial Garage and Repair Co., one of the three creditors that filed the bankruptcy petition against the bakery. Pralle's attorney said there had been disagreement between the Pralle and some of the directors of the business.

Pralle testified that the bakery owed him $5000 on a note and owed the garage company $6500 for rent of the premises at 4159 Union boulevard. The bakery, he said, owed a total of about $28,000. Pralle exhibited a doctor's certificate that he was in poor health, but said he preferred to testify.

DR. C. C. WU, FORMER CHINESE ENVOY, DIES

Minister to Washington From 1929 to 1931 Succumbs to Hongkong at 46.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, Jan. 2.—Dr. C. C. Wu, former Chinese Minister to the United States, died suddenly today of cerebral embolism. He was 46 years old.

He had been inactive in public affairs for more than a year.

Dr. Wu spent much of his boyhood in the United States. He was a son of the late Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Chinese Minister at Washington for many years. He formally presented his credentials as Minister to President Hoover March 26, 1929, but resigned in June, 1931.

After his resignation, which resulted from his lack of sympathy for the National Government of Chiang Kai-shek, Dr. Wu and his family went to Europe where he attempted to raise funds for Chinese relief work. Later he returned to China to take a leading part in efforts to smooth out differences between Nanking and opposition Governments and became chairman of the Kwangtung provincial administration in December, 1931.

He then served as chairman of the special Foreign Affairs Commission for the new Nanking Government, later being made president of the judicial Yuan. He was a lawyer, graduate in law of London University.

Dr. Wu headed the South China delegation to the Versailles peace conference in 1918 and 1919 and in 1924 became Minister of Foreign Affairs for the Southern Government. He became Minister of Foreign Affairs when the Nationalists set up their Government at Nanking and served in that capacity until becoming Minister to the United States.

Dr. Wu was born at Tientsin, June 16, 1887. Brought to the United States as a child, he was graduated from Atlantic City High School as valedictorian of his class in 1904.

CHICAGO BALLOTS IMPOUNDED

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki today ordered every ballot cast in Cook County (Chicago) in the 1932 general election to be impounded for a possible recount.

He acted on an 80-page petition charging wholesale frauds in the county's 328 precincts. A total of 1,664,000 were cast. The petition for a recount, which Judge Jarecki indicated he would grant, made mention of alleged fraud discovered in a recount which resulted in unseating Erwin J. Hasten from the Municipal Court bench and replacing him with Samuel Heller.

CITY CELEBRATES NEW YEAR'S WITH OLD-TIME GAYETY

Unrestrained Revelry Followed by Day of Calls

A Few Carriages and Even Coach Appears.

LIQUOR IS SERVED OPENLY AT HOTELS

State's Discredited Dry Law Completely Ignored—Holiday Festivities End Early Monday Night.

Recovered—almost—from one of the most joyfully riotous New Year celebrations since 1920, when prohibition was just a few days away, St. Louis devoted itself yesterday to the traditional New Year's calling, and for the most part went early to bed preparing for a return to work today after two-day holiday.

Lines of automobiles in front of homes in all parts of the city and county yesterday afternoon, during the early evening, marked the larger New Year's day parties. Callers came and went. A few, reminiscent of other and more wretched days, made their calls in carriages, and one group went from party to party in University City and the Ladue Village section in yellow coach, drawn by four gray horses and in charge of a driver who said he was a "gentleman."

Police noted that city traffic, through the late afternoon and early evening was brisk, but that it diminished rapidly after 9 o'clock when, presumably, the revelers decided it was about time to begin resting for today.

As in the Days of Old.

The celebration beginning Sunday evening while the old year had only a few more hours of existence was the first since 1919-20 at which a variety of liquor was openly served to all, although continuance in force of the State dry law made its sale illegal. Nobody worried about that, however, since local prohibitionists had been publicly announced they would take no action against violators of the State law, in view of the stand of the people on prohibition as expressed by the vote on the twenty-first amendment.

Notable among the celebrations from the standpoint of attendance were those at the Jefferson Hotel, where about 1800 revelers were on hand at the Chase, with 800, at the Sunnyside Hotel, with 500, at the Coronado with a similar number, and at the Missouri Athletic Association with a capacity crowd of 600. Smaller parties also were held at most of the other hotels and at Sunset Hill, Bismarck, Glen Echo and country clubs.

Head waiters beamed happily as the celebrations got under way. Refreshment brought back old times. Champagne corks popped, wines of every description were on the tables, whisky and gin called for gratifying frequent orders of mineral waters and ginger ale. A "parking" fee, usually 25 cents a table, was charged against those who took with them their own wine to be opened at the tables. Hotels encouraged revelers to forget the old bring-your-own-liquor rule, preferring to sell liquors and wines from their own stocks.

A Salute to Prohibition.

When the lights went out at the stroke of midnight the New Year was greeted by shouts, much horn-blowing and in one hotel, at least, by a concerted "Broom cheer" called forth by an enthusiastic reveler as a parting salute to prohibition. Afterward the celebration went long into the morning with hundreds stopping for breakfast on their way home or to early church services.

Yesterday was a day of obligatory attendance at mass for Catholics with the same general schedule of services as on Sundays. Many Protestant churches also held morning services, in addition to the watch parties on New Year's eve to mark the end of the old year and the birth of the new.

MOTHER NEEDS HELP FOR SEVEN CHILDREN

Mrs. Routt to Bring Them to St. Louis and Apply to Charity Agencies.

Mrs. Lillian Routt is going to bring her seven children back to St. Louis tomorrow or the next day and will apply to charitable agencies for assistance to maintain them.

Her sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Wahl of 3350 Maffitt avenue, told a Post-Dispatch reporter about it today. "She is a fine woman," Wahl said. "We would like to keep her here, where she has lived since her husband left her almost five years ago. But we can't. We are barely off the relief rolls ourselves."

"As you can see, our house is not large. Seven rooms and only two of them bedrooms. Now there are just the two of us and our granddaughter, Jean. She's 8 years old. But when Lillian gets back, there will be three adults and eight children here. And that is just too many."

Says Husband Won't Pay. "Of course, the Juvenile Court at Milwaukee has ordered John Routt to pay $40 a month to Lillian, but that won't work. Lillian and her husband have been separated before and always before he has refused to pay. He has even quit work and moved away rather than pay."

"Lillian has no work. She used to have employment as a domestic, but now she can't find any. I am a tailor; a pantsmaker and I work at home, but I have almost no work now. Just enough to keep us by the relief. And so, we just don't see what we can do about these seven children."

Mrs. Routt, as has been related, was awarded custody of the children Friday by a judge of the Juvenile Court at Milwaukee. She had not seen them for almost five years, and only by chance learned their whereabouts.

The Routts formerly lived on Jennings Station road and Routt operated a garage on Helen avenue near Jennings Station road. He sold the garage and the next day, according to the report, was riding with his wife and children.

"He told her," the tailor continued, "that her mother was dead. She went to borrow a black dress from a neighbor and while she was inside, John Routt drove away with the children. Lillian looked and looked. We drove her thousands of miles. But there was never a trace."

Then, two weeks ago today, John telephoned her. Two of the girls, Vernis and Beryl, had run away. He was frantic. He thought they were with her. They weren't, but that's how Lillian found out where they were.

"Lillian and John talked it over and John wrote to her and telegraphed her. He asked her if she wouldn't let bygones be bygones, and she said 'Yes.' She went up to Milwaukee for a reconciliation."

"But she found out that the girls had left home because they could not get along with John's housekeeper. The reconciliation fell through and Lillian went to court and got the children."

Provident Aid Effected. "She will be bringing them back here in a day or two—that is, unless she and John fix things up between them—and at first they will all live here. But that, as you see, cannot go on. A woman from the Provident Association has said that she will help Lillian, and so I suppose Lillian will get a place of her own for the children."

"The two girls who ran away—they were later found in Milwaukee—Vernis is 15 and Beryl 12, are the only girls Lillian has. All the others are boys: Loran, Raymond, James, John and Darrel. They're all good children and we would like to have them here, but it just can't be done."

LOS ANGELES HIT BY CLODBURST, 31 DEAD IN FLOODS

ered with silt from six inches and two feet deep. In some areas the water still rumbled past today, although the principal danger apparently had passed.

The Weather Bureau predicted unsettled weather today and clearing weather Wednesday. Schools here at in Glendale, which adjoins the Montrose district, did not open today. Examination of schools here already was under way as a result of the March earthquake and it was feared the floods may have further weakened some structures.

Sheriff's deputies recovered 10 bodies from the wreckage in the Montrose district. Most of the victims were thought to have been in some 25 houses which were destroyed by the flood. Twenty-five other homes were damaged extensively.

Legionnaires aided in policing flooded districts and helped supply first aid. In sections of Venice, beach resort, where 1500 homes were flooded, life guards manned rowboats and rescued many of the stranded residents, some of whom were forced to seek shelter on the second floor or in the attics of their homes.

In Los Angeles, Echo Park Lake backed up to the doorstep of Almee Temple, McPherson's Angelus Temple. Twenty automobiles and trucks were damaged when an 11-foot wall of water crashed into the County Road Department's warehouse near Lincoln Park.

For more than 24 hours, all light and heat was cut off from the Los Angeles General Hospital. Candles were used for lighting and extra blankets were piled on the beds of patients. Gas stoves were used to prepare meals.

To the southwest of Los Angeles, a creek bank at Culver City was being searched for victims. It was reported that at least one woman was swept to death.

Partial List of Dead. The dead in the disaster include: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moore and daughter, Martha, 7 years old, San Gabriel.

Sherman Hubbard and Toots Hubbard, brother and sister, Wilmington, occupants of the Moore automobile.

Mrs. Dorothy Carter, 40, Monterey Park.

Mrs. Myrtle Adams, 35, Monterey.

Elwood Plumb, 55, Long Beach, body found near Glendale.

Clyde Dowell, 30, Tujunga.

40 CWA STREET REPAIRERS QUIT IN WAGE DISPUTE

Say They Should Have Been Paid for 30 Hours Instead of 21 Last Week.

About 40 of the 700 CWA workers employed in street repairing throughout the city refused to go to work today when they reported at headquarters at Academy and Easton avenues, because of a wage dispute.

Street Commissioner McMahon was informed that the 40 contending they should have been paid for 30 hours' work last week instead of for the 21 hours they actually did work. Weather conditions resulted in the reduced hours, Edward Prendergast, superintendent of the repair section, instructed those who wished to "remain to go to work."

Only the 40 dissident and some of them later went back on the job. Several men said they would carry the matter to City Hall.

BUS AND ONE-MAN TROLLEY COLLIDE, SIX PERSONS HURT

Machine Crashes Into Rear End of Street Car at Ninth and Market Streets.

Six persons suffered cuts and bruises when a White Star Line bus, bound for Chicago, collided with a one-man street car at Ninth and Market streets today.

The injured, treated at City Hospital, were Mrs. Margaret Clayton and her 5-year-old daughter, Sarah, 4232 West Pine boulevard; Mrs. Betty Dean, her 13-year-old son, Frank, and daughter, Charline, 4, of Chicago, and O. D. McCallum of Detroit. None was injured seriously.

The street car, going south on Ninth, was operated by Roswell Bailey, 4115 Fairground place. The bus, driven by Dee Owen Ricketts of the Marquette Hotel, was going east on Market and hit the back end of the street car.

METEOR SHOWER TONIGHT

The annual four-day Quadrantid meteor shower is expected to reach its maximum tonight and tomorrow morning. Given clear skies, St. Louisans should see one meteor in each two minutes of observation, on the average.

It is likely that the greatest number of "shooting stars" will be seen in the southwestern sky after midnight.

FORMER NAVAL OFFICER AGAIN GUEST OF POLICE

William Leslie Stevenson's Bankroll Increased to $7 During Period of Freedom.

William Leslie Stevenson, former Naval Reserve officer, who was released by police Saturday, is back in a cell at Police Headquarters. Stevenson, who has a wide social acquaintance in St. Louis, was picked up in the lobby of the Planters' Building today, and probably will be held for 20 hours. Although he had only 30 cents when released Saturday, there was more than $7 in his pockets today. He explained that he had received assistance from lodge brothers.

Stevenson was arrested at the Park Plaza Hotel Dec. 20 as a result of an inquiry into the printing of 200 blank drafts on the Canadian Exploration Syndicate. No charges were brought against the former navy man, however. In the interim police received a letter from Capt. C. C. Elmes, an army officer of Ridley Park, Pa., who states that he read of Stevenson's arrest and recognized the prisoner as a man who obtained $7000 from him in a questionable transaction. Capt. Elmes said he knew of two other men who lost large sums through dealings with Stevenson.

STRIKE PICKETS TEAR-GASSED AT ALTON; TWO MEN SEIZED

Pair Reported to Have Opened Containers at Plant of Laclede Steel Co.

Two men were arrested in Alton this morning after they released tear gas among pickets on strike duty at the Laclede Steel Co. The men, whose names were given as T. J. Suley and Allen Raymond, were reported to have driven out of the plant in the automobile and to have released tear gas from several containers.

Employees, who went on strike Dec. 19 in support of their union, said today they were expecting the arrival of a Federal mediator as a result of an appeal they made last week to the St. Louis Regional Labor Board.

STENCH BOMB BREAKS UP DANCE, RECEIPTS STOLEN

A stench bomb broke up a dance of the Prairie-Lee Club in the basement of the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue, New Year's eve and during the commotion someone stole the receipts.

The bomb was dropped by an unidentified person at 10 o'clock. In the rush to leave the hall Cornelius Mueller, president of the club, forgot a box containing an unestimated sum of money. On his way later the money was discovered. Probationary Patrolman Robert Ferguson, who entered the basement to open windows, became ill from the fumes and was taken to City Hospital for treatment.

POLICE IN SCOUT CARS ROUND UP 10 HEAD OF CATTLE

Recapture Livestock Scattered After Truck They Occupy Is Struck by Street Car.

Police in scout cars rounded up 10 head of cattle, which scattered following their release from a motor truck in a collision with a street car at Easton and Leonard avenues at 4 a. m. today.

Several of the animals reached Twenty-third and O'Fallon streets, eight blocks away, before officers caught them. The officers drove the cattle to a packing plant at Vandeventer and Garfield avenues. The truck was driven by Alonzo Arwood of Centerville, Mo.

OFFICIAL REPORT LISTS JAMES HOW DEATH AS SUICIDE

Funeral Services Held in Brooklyn for Member of Prominent St. Louis Family.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The funeral of James How, 28 years old, member of a socially prominent St. Louis family, was held in Brooklyn today. An official report of a medical examiner states that How's death, caused by gas asphyxiation in an apartment kitchen early Sunday, was a suicide.

The young man's body, clad in evening clothes, was found in the apartment at 400 East Fifty-eighth street, New York, where he had been staying with two friends since coming from St. Louis three weeks ago. He lay on the kitchen floor, a pillow under his head, and gas was flowing from three open burners of a range.

How went to a dance Saturday night at Squadron A Armory, Park avenue and Ninety-fourth street, going with W. G. Miller and E. P. Harrington, with whom he was staying in the apartment. After the dance, a buffet supper was given in the apartment.

Miller took some of the guests home, and How remained with Harrington in the apartment. Returning at 7:15 a. m., Miller found How's body.

He Appeared Worried. Miller said How had appeared worried, probably by failure to find employment in New York. He seemed well supplied with money, and kept a new coupe of expensive make in a garage. He inherited $40,000 from his great-aunt, Mrs. Mary E. How of New York, a little more than a year ago.

The body was buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, beside that of the young man's father. He was the son of Mrs. Charles Adams How, 79 Vandeventer place, St. Louis, and was a brother of Mrs. John Kennard Wallace, 721 Glen Ridge drive, Clayton, Mo. His father, the late Charles A. How, was formerly general purchasing agent of the Missouri Pacific Railroad in St. Louis.

The young man attended St. Louis Country Day School, Phillips Andover Academy and Yale University. He formerly worked as a salesman for Johns-Manville Co., and when he came to New York his relatives supposed he was to go to work for the firm again.

Mrs. Amy Gleason How, mother of James How; his sister, Mrs. Wallace, and her husband, who is secretary of Cupples Co., left for New York Sunday, after being informed of James How's death.

Wallace said, before leaving St. Louis, that he, his wife and mother-in-law believed How's death to have been accidental. The messages received by them, Wallace said, indicated a probable blowing out of the gas in the kitchen range by a gust of air. He said How was in good spirits when he left St. Louis.

VETERAN OF WORLD WAR IS KILLED BY A TRAIN

Rudolph Ploesser Had Been Released From Hospital to Visit Home Over Holidays.

Rudolph Ploesser, 35-year-old World War veteran, was killed by a train at the foot of Meramec street today. His body was found lying on the Missouri Pacific right-of-way at noon.

Ploesser had been under treatment in the mental division at Veterans' Hospital, Jefferson Barracks, for several years. He was released for a trial visit to his home, 6324 Salzburger avenue, on Dec. 24, and was due to return to the hospital tonight.

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Lederer, 5532 Waterman avenue, are observing their golden wedding anniversary today. Mr. Lederer, who is 80 years old, is president of the Pickle Stone Co., 1320 South Vandeventer avenue. A reception will follow a family dinner this evening at the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lederer came to St. Louis after their marriage in New York City. They have four children, Mrs. Harry Broder and Mrs. Roy E. Tilles, both of New York City, and Mrs. S. Hirschberger and J. M. Lederer, of St. Louis.

GIRL SHOT TO DEATH IN DEFYING ROBBERS

Note Left in Apron Discloses She Refused to Tell Where Money Was.

By the Associated Press.
NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C., Jan. 2.—Discovery of a note left by Leota Children, 18 years old, yesterday, led to recovery of $610 thought stolen from the foster-parents' home when she was killed Saturday and disclosed her defiance of four robbers in the face of threats.

The note, left in an apron the girl was wearing, informed her foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warwick Tilly, that she had hidden the money in the "C" and they found it in the cellar of a tobacco barn.

The message said four men were in the house and had given her 20 minutes under threat of death to tell where her foster-parents' money was hidden, and she was using the time to write the note, rather than give them the money. She would die, the girl wrote.

The letter said farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Tilly and to "Andrew," whose last name officers said they did not know. They were informed, Sheriff Somers said, that he was Leota's sweetheart.

Four men are held in connection with the killing of the girl, who was found shot to death. They are Porter, Blaine and Taft Norman, brothers, and Jesse Brewer.

When the girl's body was found a tin box in which Tilly, a wealthy farmer, had $610 and some notes and deeds, was missing from the house. The box, with contents intact, was found in the tobacco barn cellar.

MRS. W. V. DEVER'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. William V. Dever, 55 years old, wife of the former Governor of St. Louis, were held today from the Ziegenhein Brothers' funeral establishment, 2623 Cherokee street. Burial took place in New Packer Cemetery.

Mrs. Dever, who died Saturday of heart disease at Lusher Hospital, was secretary of the Tenth Ward Women's Republican Club, and resided at 3421 Iowa avenue.

DRASTIC CHANGES MADE IN FEDERAL FARM BUREAU

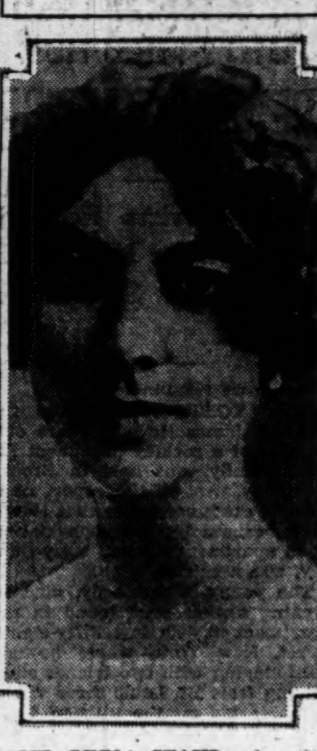

Successor to Peek Names Three Assistant Administrators and Consolidates Divisions.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Drastic reorganization of the Farm Adjustment Administration with abandonment of eight sections was announced today by Chester C. Davis, Farm Administrator.

Davis, who was appointed two weeks ago to succeed George N. Peek, said the purpose was to coordinate the work of the administration and concentrate its efforts on the problems most immediately concerned with the welfare of farmers.

The reorganization completes

FRENCH HOLDING HER AS FOREIGN SPY

MME. LYDIA STAHL, who with nine others is accused by Paris police of being a member of an espionage ring which was captured in Paris with allegedly incriminating evidence in the form of French plans of secret fortifications. Madame Stahl is a Russian professor and accomplished linguist, proficient in seven languages.

changes within the administration which began a month ago, when differences in policy between Peek and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace resulted in the former's withdrawal and subsequent appointment as head of President Roosevelt's special committee on foreign trade.

Three Aids to Davis.

Davis announced the appointment of three assistant administrators. Victor A. Christgau, former Congressman from Minnesota and Davis' assistant when he was in charge of the production control section; H. R. Tolley of Berkeley, Cal., also a former assistant of Davis in the old organization; and Alfred D. Stedman, former director of information, who will become head of the division of information and records, with control over the consumers' council, the press section and correspondence and printing.

Christgau will be in charge of a new section to be known as the commodities division, which will take over the function of the production division and certain sections of the processing and marketing division.

He will be aided by Jess W. Tapp of Henderson, Ky., former head of the general crops section, who will assist in directing marketing agreements and such codes of fair competition as are not transferred to the NRA; and D. P. Trent, director of agricultural extension in Oklahoma, who will assist in the production adjustment programs for wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, dairying and other farm products.

Tolley would be assigned to work out an alignment of production adjustment plans, Davis said, and would coordinate activities of the Farm Administration with those of other branches of the Department of Agriculture.

Some Divisions Abandoned. Through the merging of many old sections and incorporation of their duties under new heads, the food products, fisheries, beverages, foreign trade, imports, code analysis, special commodities and the office of the administrative officer will be abandoned. The processing and marketing division will be merged with the production division in the new commodities division under Christgau.

As a result Maj. Robert M. Littlejohn, lent by the army to be head of the special commodities section, will return to his former duties. Other changes include the transfer of J. E. Dalton, formerly chief economist of the code analysis committee, to assist Tapp in administering codes retained in the Farm Administration; resignation of D. S. Murphy, former head of the processing and marketing section, to take a commercial position; transfer of George Carlson, former head of the license and enforcement section, together with several assistants, to NRA; and transfer of R. H. Fielder, chief of the fisheries section, to either the Department of Commerce or NRA.

Shift to Alcohol Administration. H. E. Willingham, former head of the beverage control section, was transferred to the Federal alcohol control administration to become assistant to Joseph M. Choate, administrator, and Ray Miller, former chief of the export section, was lent to the alcohol administration. J. B. Bole, chief of the discontinued foods section, will remain in the farm administration until codes concerning foods which are retained there are straightened out, after which he may go to the NRA. Oscar Johnston of Scott, Miss., will continue as manager of the Cotton Producers' pool and will administer other matters connected with the cotton program and advise the administration on financial problems.

Ward N. Buckles of Spokane, Wash., was appointed director of the finance division, and H. P. Seidemann, formerly in charge of the office of co-ordination, was named special assistant to Davis. T. Weed Harvey of Fairmount, Ind., was appointed assistant to Davis in charge of business management, and William A. Byrd, Jr., of Baltimore, former assistant in the general crops section, was made special assistant to the Administrator.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE EARNINGS INCREASE

Net of $9,090,566. Reported for 1933 Compared With $6,647,527 in 1932.

Net earnings of $9,090,566 are reported by the International Shoe Co. for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1933, compared with $6,647,527 for the previous year.

Net sales totaled $70,343,128, compared with $65,488,662 for the year before. Factories of the company produced 43,661,589 pairs of shoes, against 38,989,916 pairs in 1932. Subsidiary plants of the company produced supplies and materials amounting to $34,958,927, making the aggregate of business transacted, $105,302,056 for the year.

Earnings, after payment of dividends on preferred stock which was retired during the year, amounted to $2.58 a share on the common stock, compared with $1.80 in 1932 and $2.55 in 1931.

Half of the company's 100,000 shares of preferred were retired June 1, and the balance on Dec. 1, requiring an expenditure of $10,500,000. After retirement of preferred stock the company had $14,688,940 in cash among its current assets totaling $47,676,985. Current liabilities are listed at $3,663,798, including $1,670,000 reserved for income taxes.

In letters to stockholders which accompany the annual report, W. H. Moulton, president, and Frank C. Rand, chairman of the board, state that business, unquestionably, is feeling the stimulating effects of large Government expenditures.

"In agricultural areas," the letters state, "reports show many farmers are liquidating their debts, paying old accounts and buying useful articles denied them for several years." The letters express the opinion that prices will rise through the first quarter of 1934, and direct attention to abnormally active sales last May, June and July, which came in anticipation of higher prices.

Total assets of the company are put at $79,061,390, compared with $66,590,432 a year ago. Current assets include cash, $14,688,940; Government securities, $125,000; accounts receivable, $14,232,730; inventories, $18,630,914. Current liabilities include: Accounts payable, $1,721,516; officers' and employees' balances and deposits, $272,452; reserve for Federal income taxes, $1,670,000.

UNDERHILL GUARD DOUBLED

Wounded Desperado Said to Be Dying at Shawnee, Ok.

By the Associated Press.
SHAWNEE, Ok., Jan. 2.—The guard over Wilbur Underhill was doubled today. No reason was given for the additional guard over the bank robber and killer who physicians say is dying.

Underhill's bride of a month and Raymond Roe, identified as the owner of a truck used in an attempted bank burglary at Harrah, Ok., were taken to Oklahoma City for questioning last night by R. H. Colvin, Federal agent. Colvin, who led the raid which resulted in the capture of Underhill after a fight in which Eva Mae Nichols, beauty shop operator, was wounded fatally, said Underhill had admitted the attempted burglary and robbery of banks in Kansas, Kentucky, Arkansas and Oklahoma. Roe was wounded in the shoulder in the raid on Miss Nichols' home, where the Kansas prison captive was surprised.

Funeral of the Rev. T. O. Uhdau. Funeral services were held today for the Rev. Theodore Otto Uhdau, a retired Evangelical clergyman, who died Sunday of pneumonia at the Good Samaritan Almsheim, 4500 Washington boulevard. Burial took place at Stratman, Mo. The Rev. Mr. Uhdau, who was 33 years old, retired from the pastorate of St. Paul's Evangelical Church there in 1928. He previously held pastorates in Texas and Illinois.

ARNOLD G. STIFEL ON 'WHY A UNITED RELIEF CAMPAIGN?'

St. Louis Drive Chairman Issues Statement on Necessity for the Solicitation.

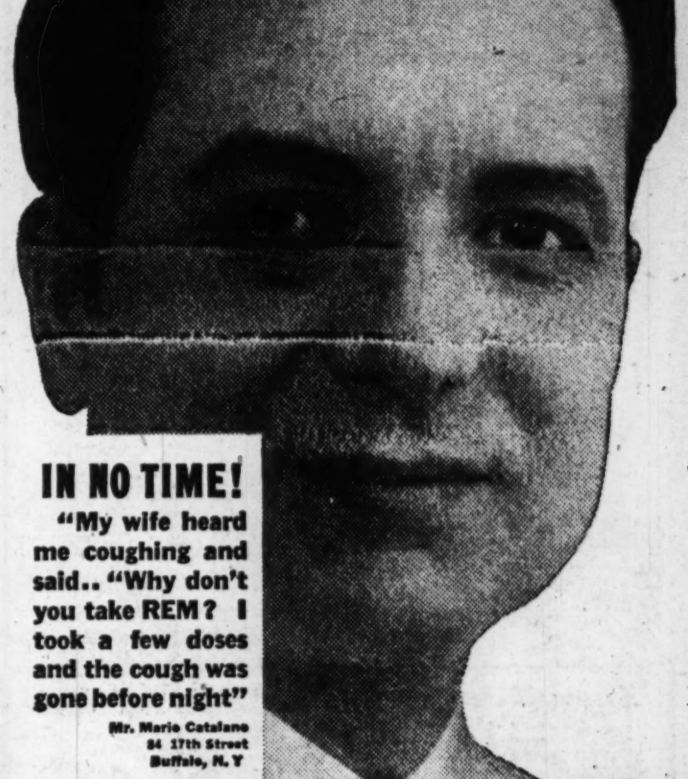

To make clear the necessity for the United Relief Campaign, despite the use of Government funds in providing relief, Arnold G. Stifel, chairman of the campaign which will begin Jan. 22, has prepared a brief statement which will be used extensively in literature for the campaign.

"Why a United Relief Campaign?" the statement asks. "Because Government unemployed relief does not provide for clinics, hospitals, outlying farms, day nurseries, visiting nurses, settlement houses, convalescent homes, homes for the aged, child-placing agencies, and children's institutions. "It does not even provide relief and service to needy families and individuals when dependency is caused by sickness, desertion, non-support, imprisonment, old age, death, physical handicap, mental disorder, personality problems, insufficient earnings, juvenile delinquency, legal problems, property entanglements or other social problems. "The United Relief Campaign must pick up where Government aid leaves off."

TWO KILLED IN RENEWAL OF FEUD IN LOUISIANA

Bob Travis and Negro Bodyguard Shot to Death; Two Others Slain Last October.

KENTWOOD, La., Jan. 2.—The finding of the bullet-pierced bodies of Bob Travis and his Negro bodyguard on the banks of a creek yesterday sent officers out on a round-up of Travis-Bridges feudists, who have been shooting out grudges in Tangipahoa Parish for years. The feud broke out again last October, when Claude Bridges and Walter Travis were killed three days apart, and Bob Travis was out on a $2500 bond charged with killing Bridges. Residents said Bob Travis had been warned to stay out of the neighborhood where his body was found full of buckshot. There has been bad blood between the two families for years. Bob Travis and his bodyguard, Bill Nixon, Negro, apparently were shot as they were crossing the bridge, as Travis' body was found on one bank with a loaded and unfired shotgun by his side and his bodyguard's body was found on the other bank with his hand clutching a fully loaded pistol. Officers said apparently they were taken by surprise and were shot to death before they could fire their weapons.

PWA ENGINEER CALLS HEARING ON UTILITY PLANS

Asks Lawyers Who Have Opposed Bond Bills to Present Views on 58 Municipal Projects.

A public hearing on 58 proposed municipal utilities dependent on passage of the revenue bond bills which the State Senate refused to call out of committee last week will be held tomorrow by Hugh Miller, State engineer of the Federal Public Works Administration. Lawyers representing privately owned utilities which have opposed the bills have been invited to the hearing by Miller. The hearing is limited to interests concerned, Miller said, and is not for representatives of the cities proposing to establish their own utilities with funds furnished by revenue bonds and PWA aid. If results of the meeting are not satisfactory, Miller intends to hear the 58 cities at Jefferson City soon.

It is understood Miller hopes to determine tomorrow what amendments can be made to make the bills more acceptable to the Senate. The private electric utility lobby at the Capitol has opposed the four measures which, respectively, would authorize cities of less than 75,000 population to issue by majority vote bonds for electric, gas, water and sewer systems.

"Utility States of America." "We have had 100 per cent cooperation in the public works program in Missouri from everybody except the utilities and certain stand pat Chambers of Commerce," said Miller. "Missouri belongs to the United States of America and we don't want it to become one of the Utility States of America."

Tomorrow's gathering, Miller announced, was called at the request of Gov. Fawcett who sponsored the municipal utility bills after they were submitted by the State Advisory Board of the PWA. Those invited include:

Charles H. Mayer, St. Joseph, attorney for Cities Service Co., who has lobbied against the bills; Louis H. Egan, president of Union Electric Light & Power Co., which has opposed the bills; Ludwig Graves, attorney for Kansas City Power & Light Co., a subsidiary of the big chain of United Light & Power Co. of Maryland; A. Z. Patterson, Kansas City, attorney for Missouri Public Service Co. of the Insull chain; P. Stone Jr., Springfield, attorney for Missouri Electric Power Co., a subsidiary of the holding company of Laclede Gas; William R. Gilbert, St. Louis, attorney for Missouri Power & Light Co., controlled by North American Light & Power Co.; I. R. Kelso, Cape Girardeau, attorney for Missouri Utilities Co., a subsidiary of Community Power & Light Co. of St. Louis. The State Public Service Commission and the new State Planning Commission also were asked to send members.

State Senators Welcome.

Associated with Miller in the hearing will be H. S. Julian, State attorney of the PWA. They will be advised by Benjamin H. Charles, widely known bond lawyer, who drew the municipal utility bills, and City Counselor Hay. Attorneys Patterson, Stone and Gilbert have represented their companies at hearings of the State Advisory Board on the companies' protests against PWA allotments for municipal utilities. Graves sent word he would bring executives of his Kansas City company to tomorrow's meeting.

It was announced at Kansas City that State Senator Casey, Kansas City, leader of the opposition to the bills, had been invited. Miller said here today Casey had not been asked but that he or any other Senator was welcome to attend. Miller has denounced Casey and other Senators for opposing the bills.

Estimated cost of the 58 proposed municipal utilities dependent on passage of the revenue bond bills is $7,257,949. The cities are seeking loans of $5,353,285 and grants of $1,802,707 from the PWA. Included are 33 waterworks, to cost $5,379,550; 13 sewer systems, to cost $676,435; 10 electric plants, to cost $1,053,312; and two gas plants, to cost $137,504.

Miller, in speeches out-State, has urged the Senate to pass the bills for the water and sewer systems at least.

The proposed plants and costs are: WATERWORKS—Salem, $40,000; Springfield, $3,600,000; Vandalla, $193,561; O'Fallon, $35,000; Steelville, $41,542; Macon, $175,000; Farm, $45,128; Monett, $26,947; Pineville, $18,644; Clarkton, $20,000; Licking, $32,060; St. Charles, $65,000; Dixon, $45,500; Crocker, $38,200; Portageville, $11,000; Summerville, $27,547; Spickardville, $10,500; Carthage, $106,500; Mountain View, $50,100; Union, $25,000; Melle, $50,300; Bland, $44,500; Newburg, $47,476; Hornersville, $29,000; Oak Grove, $41,000; Trenton, $32,220; Bolivar, $55,000; Fomfelt, $45,000; Oran, $45,000; Louisiana, $210,000; Gerald, $29,900; Blue Springs, $104,000; Elsberry, $113,000.

GAS PLANTS—Washington, $70,000; Rolla, $67,904.

What U. S. Has Done for State. Missouri has been allotted $6,547,257 so far on large non-Federal improvements in the public works program, the PWA at Washington announced yesterday. More than $4,000,000 of this consists of outright grants, while the remainder constitutes loans. In addition, Miller points out, Missouri has been al-

More than $4,000,000 of this consists of outright grants, while the remainder constitutes loans. In addition, Miller points out, Missouri has been allotted directly from Washington, $14,150,000 for roads, $12,000,000 in the civil works program; $4,843,500 for postoffices, including one for St. Louis which has been delayed, and $3,294,000 or more for river improvements.

Details of the allowances made for non-Federal improvements have been published. The range of allowances to other states from PWA funds, not including the civil works program, is wide. New York has received the largest amount—$128,801,000. Maine has received nothing.

GEORGIA PHONE RATE RULING

Federal Court Sustains Order for 25 Per Cent.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 2.—An order of the State Public Service Commission for a 25 per cent cut in Georgia telephone rates of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. was sustained today by a three-judge Federal Court, which refused to grant the telephone company's plea for an injunction.

BRENTWOOD VOTING TODAY ON COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Under System Proposed Mayor and Two Councilmen Would Name Department Heads.

Brentwood is voting today on a proposal to establish a commission form of government to replace the present aldermanic form.

Control would be vested in a Mayor and two Councilmen, who would appoint all department heads. Under the present fourth class city organization, the Mayor, six Aldermen and other officials are elected every two years.

Polls will be open until 7 p. m. If the new form is adopted, a primary election will be held two weeks before the regular April election and two candidates for Mayor and four for the Council will be nominated. Other county towns which have the commission form are Webster Groves, Kirkwood, Maplewood and Richmond Heights.

NEW CHIEF'S ORDERS TO POLICE DEPARTMENT

McCarthy Says Crime Must Go —Demands Courtesy Toward the Public.

Police Captains in command of districts must assume entire responsibility for them, Chief of Police McCarthy wrote in his special New Year's bulletin to the force, distributed at roll calls yesterday and Sunday.

Declaring the force of which he took charge slightly more than two weeks ago ranks high among police organizations, the new Chief urged his officers to make St. Louis law enforcement still more outstanding, but repeated the warning of his predecessor, Joseph A. Gerk, now on leave preparatory to retirement, that policemen must exercise courtesy and consideration in dealing with the public.

"The Board of Police Commissioners and this office are determined that this police administration shall 'go places and see things,'" he wrote. "We shall expect and require alert, diligent, faithful and loyal service from each and every officer and employee. These are our specifications for man and woman, and the individual who cannot qualify under them had best go elsewhere."

"We must make up our minds right now that gangsters, racketeers and crooks have got to go. St. Louis has no room for them. Organized crime must not be permitted to obtain a foothold here. Bombings and crimes of violence will not be tolerated. Our city must be as safe a place in which to live and do business as it is humanly possible to make it."

Duty of Commanding Officers.
"Our policy with respect to policing the city is that commanding officers must assume entire responsibility for conditions within their districts. There may arise occasions when special investigations will be advisable by gambling or morality squads, but as a general proposition Captains and Lieutenants should be prepared to handle such matters themselves."

"Certainly ranking officers should be fully informed as to what is going on in their districts, else their Sergeants and patrolmen are falling in their duty."

"The department of police officers in their contacts with the public must at all times be courteous and considerate. There must be no bullying and no bawling out of citizens. It is my firm conviction that many a complaint against a policeman in the past necessitating an investigation and report in each case never would have been made had the officer, instead of waxing abusive and sarcastic, been able to remain cool, tolerant and polite."

"I am a firm believer in harmony and co-operation in police work. One man may be assigned to traffic duty, another to patrol a beat and a third to secret service duty. Hence they must work side by side and shoulder to shoulder for the protection of life and property, the prevention and detection of crime, and the tracking down of criminals."

"Because we have a traffic division does not justify a beat man in passing up traffic violations, nor should the fact that we have a secret service division keep a man in uniform from doing detective work. In police service it is achievement that counts and petty differences and jealousies between individuals must be cast aside if we are to obtain the maximum good from our efforts."

"In conclusion permit me to suggest that the brightest and happiest New Year the force could give me would be to bring in the slayers of Mr. and Mrs. Abeln and of Walter V. Husemann."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Abeln were killed Dec. 22, apparently in an attempted holdup as they left one of the five stores of the Abeln Bros. Cigar and Tobacco Co. at 3928 South Broadway.

Husemann's body was found Christmas night on Goodfellow boulevard at Penrose street. The youth, 18 years old, had been shot in the head.

POLICE ARSON AND BOMBING INQUIRY SQUAD REORGANIZED

Out From 16 Men to Five; Detective-Sergeant Leo McKenna Is Leader.

The police arson and bombing investigation squad, recently increased to 16 men, has been reorganized with but five members. Detective-Sergeant Leo McKenna is the squad leader. His aids are Detectives Maurice O'Neill, Roy White, Harold Bohlen and William Greenpan, who was a member of the previous group.

Also it was announced that plain clothes men had been removed from bridge details, except on McKinley Bridge. It was found that informed officers were able to handle situations arising on and near the bridges and the plain clothes detail probably will be taken off McKinley Bridge later.

NEW U. S. MARSHAL

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
WILLIAM B. FAHY.

WILLIAM B. FAHY SWORN AS UNITED STATES MARSHAL

William B. Fahy, attorney, of Monroe City, Mo., took the oath as United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Missouri yesterday, succeeding Theodore W. Hukriede, who resigned to permit appointment of a Democrat.

Federal Judge Faris presided at a brief ceremony in his courtroom. Judge Davis was present, also, and about 100 of Fahy's friends.

The entire force of deputy marshals, bailiffs and office workers was sworn in outside the courtroom. Fahy announced they would be retained temporarily, and that he would choose his new staff Feb. 1.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made
At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of Glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

PROFESSOR SHOT TO DEATH

County Attorney Thinks He Killed Self Accidentally.

LUBBOCK, Tex., Jan. 2.—The body of Samuel J. Boller, 38 years old, Texas Technological College assistant professor, was found in his office in the college engineering building late yesterday. He had been shot to death.

County Attorney Wilson thought the death was accidental. Ralph Lewis, close friend of the Boller family, told Wilson that Boller was extremely careless in handling firearms.

WOMAN IS WOUNDED IN NEW YEAR SALUTE

Man Held for Firing Shotgun—Three Others Hit by Bullets.

A woman was shot, and windows in a house and an automobile were shattered, when a New Year's celebrator identified by police as John Beran, 53 years old, 2863 Ohio avenue, set up a shotgun barrage from the front yard of his home yesterday.

Mrs. Frieda Chott, 5531 Rosa avenue, attending a party at 2863 Ohio avenue, was wounded in the right arm when she stood at a door during the firing. Neighbors counted 28 shots. Birdshot shattered glass in a parked automobile and a residence. Beran, who had five shells left when police arrived, was booked for assault to kill, destruction of property and discharging firearms.

Louis Kuntz, 3652 Evans avenue, was struck in the shoulder by a stray bullet as he was walking in the 2100 block of Benton street.

Mrs. Louisa Hellriegel, 3454 Oregon avenue, was wounded in the foot at the Swiss dance hall, Iowa avenue and Arsenal street, New Year's eve, by a bullet apparently fired by a celebrator.

Mrs. Florence Foster, Negro, standing at a window of her home, 2108A Carr street, early yesterday, was struck in the hip by a bullet fired by a celebrator.

Arthur Andt, 1109 Natalie avenue, East St. Louis, suffered burns of the left hand yesterday when he accidentally shot himself while firing blank cartridges. He was treated at St. Mary's Hospital.

U. S. PROTEST AGAINST GERMAN LOAN ACTION

Joins England in Opposing Reduction in Interest Payments.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The State Department today instructed Ambassador William E. Dodd in Berlin to make representations to the German Government against the announced intention of the Reichsbank to reduce interest payments on foreign loans other than the Dawes and Young loans.

The British Government already has taken similar action. In a statement, William Phillips, Acting Secretary of State, said: "With reference to the unilateral decision taken by the Reichsbank on Dec. 18 to reduce during the next six months in respect to the service on German loans other than the Dawes and Young loans, the department understands that the British Government has made representations to the German Government."

The American Ambassador at Berlin has been instructed to make similar representations to the German Government. "Ambassador Dodd will also ask the German Government for detailed information as to the amount of funds made available during the last two years for repurchase of German securities issued in the United States."

Under the Reichstag's plan, transfer interest payments on Germany's long and medium term debts will be cut to 30 per cent, against 50 per cent paid under the transfer moratorium during the last six months.

The balance of 70 per cent will be paid in script redeemable at half its value. This means that Germany 7 per cent bonds will in the future pay only 43 per cent and German 6 per cent bonds only 30 per cent. Although the text of the representations was not made public, it was understood that the United States took the position that it was an essential principle that when temporary modifications in loan contracts to the detriment of creditors are required by circumstances they should be agreed on by debtor and creditor.

The State Department, it was said, considers that failure to observe this principle tends to undermine the credit of the debtor and makes difficult the maintenance of international credit operations.

LISTING DOCTORS TO TREAT NEEDY AT REDUCED RATES

St. Louis Medical Society Carrying Out Recommendation of Relief Administration.

A list of physicians who will agree to treat the indigent sick at their homes at reduced rates is being compiled by St. Louis Medical Society. A committee of the society will meet tomorrow with representatives of United Relief, Inc., to seek an understanding about the compensation of doctors who treat those on relief rolls.

The Medical Society recently adopted a resolution to furnish care for the sick poor at rates about two-thirds of the minimum fees established lately for general practice. These rates would apply only when the doctor was summoned by a relief agency. The maximum for home visits would be $2, and obstetrical care would be about $25.

The action of the society is in accord with a recommendation of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration which suggested that a scale of reduced fees should be established by negotiation between local medical societies and relief agencies.

HEIRS CLAIM $4800 IN BONDS

Seek Distribution of Fund Overlooked in 1902 Settlement.

Suit for distribution of liquidated dividends on 20 shares of stock in the former Laclede Building Co., owned by Thomas T. Turner, member of an old St. Louis family, who died in 1897, has been filed in Circuit Court by three of his heirs. The amount on hand, the petition sets forth, is $4800 in United States Treasury bonds.

The Turner estate was finally settled in 1902 by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., executor, which did not know, it is stated, of the existence of the building stock during the period of administration. The petitioning heirs say they are entitled to share in a distribution of the fund, and the Court is asked to direct the trust company to make such distribution. Because of doubt as to who is entitled to the fund the executor has been unwilling to make distribution without a court ruling, it was said by counsel.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Mrs. Harriet T. Cooke, Mrs. Nancy T. Pope, daughters, and A. Campbell Turner, a son.

FIRST 1934 ST. LOUIS BABY

A daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. John Wortman Jr., 3130A Winnebago street, was the first child of the new year in St. Louis. She was born half a minute after midnight yesterday at Lutheran Hospital. In East St. Louis the first child was a boy, born at the same hour to Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bittner, at St. Mary's Hospital. Bittner is an automobile dealer at Collinsville.

The first marriage license issued in St. Louis this year was to Raymond C. Meinhardt, 5800 Van Buren street, and Miss Adeline L. Loftin, 9066 Lark avenue, St. Louis County. They obtained the license yesterday afternoon at the home of Assistant Marriage License Clerk Frank Meyer, and were married this morning in a church ceremony.

COL. PERKINS QUILTS PEOPLE'S BUS CO.

Resignation as Head Follows Sale—Number of Office Workers Lose Jobs.

Col. Albert T. Perkins today severed his connection with the People's Motor Bus Co. of which he has been president and general manager for a number of years. This resulted from the recent purchase of the bus company by the St. Louis Public Service Co.

Henry W. Kiel, receiver of the Public Service Co., now is president of the People's Motor Bus Co., and S. W. Greenland, general manager of the Public Service Co., is general manager of the bus company. The operating department of the bus company has been consolidated with that of the Public Service Co. and a number of employees in the general offices of the bus company have been dismissed, in effecting the economies that were promised when the Federal Court was asked to approve the purchase.

Kiel said the offices of auditor and treasurer of the bus company will be retained for some time at the company's old headquarters, 3615 Forest Park boulevard. The Public Service Co. officers receive no extra compensation for their services as officers of the bus company. Kiel said that a number of employees of the bus company will be kept by the Public Service Co. Col. Perkins has been active in transportation affairs in St. Louis for many years. He was manager of the old United Railways for Re-rolling Ralls Wells from 1919 to 1927.

Stop Unpleasant Breath

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of natural action among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaints, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take them for a week and note the effect. 10¢, 50¢, $1.00.

FUNERAL OF FORMER OFFICIAL WHO WAS STRUCK BY AUTO

Services at Edwardsville for Joseph A. Barnett, Ex-Circuit Clerk of Madison County.

Funeral services were held at Edwardsville today for Joseph A. Barnett, 71 years old, former Circuit Clerk of Madison County, who died Sunday morning at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, of injuries suffered in an automobile collision near Edwardsville a week ago.

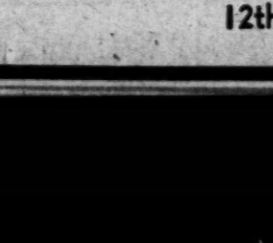

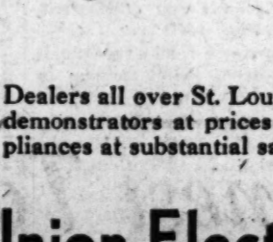

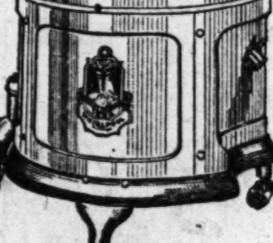

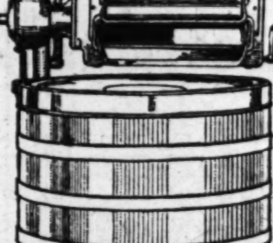

The other automobile in the accident was driven by Mrs. Cecelia Brady of Jacksonville, Ill. She and a passenger, Mrs. William Turley, Granite City, are still at the hospital.

Mr. Barnett became Circuit Clerk in 1907 for an unexpired term and was re-elected the next year. He served until 1912. Recently he had been employed by a road construction firm. His widow and two brothers, all of Edwardsville, survive.

MRS. EDITH M'CORMICK'S TREASURES BEING AUCTION

Sale to Last Five Days at Art Association Galleries in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The pioneer's hammer started falling today on the art treasures of the Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. The sale will last five days at the American Art Association and Galleries, where it is being held in order of the Chicago Title Trust Co., executor of Mrs. McCormick's estate.

The collection consists of 15 pieces, Oriental rugs, antique Italian, French and English furniture, semi-precious metal carvings, table linens and plaques, gilded silver, pieces from Prince Demidoff and other famous collections, and the 1600-piece, poison-Borghese service, originally owned by Napoleon's sister, Pauline.

The Napoleon-Borghese service was on exhibition at the Art Institute of Chicago from Jan. 6, until Nov. 15, 1932. There is a tradition that Napoleon ordered major part of the service as a gift for his sister and her brother-in-law, Prince Camille Borghese. The service was purchased by Mrs. McCormick's homes on Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, and at Lake Forest, Ill., will be auctioned along with the derson Galleries.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AGAINST TUGWELL

Opposes Measure Designed to Strengthen Food and Drug Regulations.

The Chamber of Commerce letters to Federal representatives is urging defeat of the Tugwell designed to tighten up food drug regulations. The letter points out that the Chamber of Commerce believes in preventing manufacture and sale of harmful drugs and foods, but believes provisions of the Tugwell bill too drastic.

Among the eight reasons for its opposition are that the bill gives arbitrary powers to the Secretary of Agriculture, expert secret formulae, establishes an expert bureaucracy, discourages legitimate advertising, and makes sense a criminal charge.

URGES COMBINING OF RESERVE BANKS

Philadelphia Record Advocates Central Institution Under Federal Command.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—Philadelphia Record urges Congress combine the 12 Reserve Banks into one bank under direct command of Government in order to control value of the dollar.

"Eventually this step is taken and must be taken Government is to survive paper asserted yesterday. Twelve Federal Reserve banks are now supposed to regulate volume and value of our money," the Record stated.

"Of course, they lost control of the situation in 1929 and hope to regain dollar value until the country returns to normal."

"But as the system is supported, these 12 banks command enormous reservoirs of money. Through variation of rates and policies they can increase or decrease pressure on the money market of the country in its commercial banks."

"It is as though 12 men might 12 valves to as many water all emptying into the level of which they can regulate—if they act in unison they act independently they each others efforts and chaos."

"Such is the present system, national credit regulation, which turns regulates the value of the dollar and the domestic price level. The Record, which was one of the first to advocate the gold standard, stated:

"Such a proposal may encounter bitter opposition of the big commercial banks which own and operate the Federal Reserve Bank. Naturally they want to control source of the main commodity which they deal—credit."

"But even the bankers must begin to realize that is their credit reservoirs while forcing the Government into devious and dangerous methods meeting the present monetary situation."

"Ninety per cent of our business transactions are performed by exchange of bank credit. Their controlled credit expansion is proper and only effective way lower the value of the dollar, increase the price level."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AGAINST TUGWELL

Opposes Measure Designed to Strengthen Food and Drug Regulations.

The Chamber of Commerce letters to Federal representatives is urging defeat of the Tugwell designed to tighten up food drug regulations. The letter points out that the Chamber of Commerce believes in preventing manufacture and sale of harmful drugs and foods, but believes provisions of the Tugwell bill too drastic.

Among the eight reasons for its opposition are that the bill gives arbitrary powers to the Secretary of Agriculture, expert secret formulae, establishes an expert bureaucracy, discourages legitimate advertising, and makes sense a criminal charge.

$500,000 Department Store Fire By the Associated Press.

ELWOOD, Ind., Jan. 2.—A department store building owned and operated by the R. L. Lamon Co. destroyed by fire early today. Loss is estimated at $500,000. Fire is believed to have been started by defective wiring. Fire departments from Alexandria, Va., and Anderson aided the local department.

URGES COMBINING OF RESERVE BANKS

Philadelphia Record Advocates Central Institution Under Federal Command.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—The Philadelphia Record urges that Congress combine the 12 Federal Reserve Banks into one central bank under direct command of the Government in order to control the value of the dollar.

"Eventually this step will be taken and must be taken if the Government is to survive," the paper asserted yesterday.

"Twelve Federal Reserve Banks are now supposed to regulate the volume and value of our money," the Record stated.

"Of course, they lost command of the situation in 1929 and cannot hope to regain dollar value control until the country returns to normalcy."

"But as the system is supposed to work, these 12 banks command tremendous reservoirs of credit.
Through variation of rediscount rates and policies they can increase or decrease pressure on the working credit of the country in its commercial banks."

"It is as though 12 men manipulate 12 valves to, as many reservoirs, all emptying into one pool, the level of which they can raise or lower—if they act in unison. If they act independently they nullify each others efforts and create chaos."

"Such is the present system of national credit regulation, which in turn regulates the value of the dollar and the domestic price index."

The Record, which was one of the first papers to advocate going off the gold standard, stated:

"Such a proposal may encounter bitter opposition of the big commercial banks which own and dominate the Federal Reserve Banks.
Naturally they want to control the source of the main commodity in which they deal—credit."

"But even the bankers must begin to realize that it is their control of the credit reservoirs which is forcing the Government into more devious and dangerous methods of meeting the present monetary distortion."

"Ninety per cent of our business transactions are performed by the exchange of bank credit. Therefore, controlled credit expansion is the proper and only effective way to lower the value of the dollar, increase the price level."

MRS. EDITH MCCORMICK'S TREASURES BEING AUCTIONED

Sale to Last Five Days at Art Association Galleries in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The auctioneer's hammer started falling today on the art treasures of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

The sale will last five days at the American Art Association Anderson Galleries, where it is being held by order of the Chicago Title and Trust Co., executor of Mrs. McCormick's estate.

The collection consists of tapestries, Oriental rugs, antique laces, Italian, French and English period furniture, semi-precious mineral carvings, table linens and porcelains, gilded silver, pieces from the Prince Demidoff and other famous collections, and the 1600-piece Napoleon-Borghese service, which originally was owned by Napoleon's sister, Pauline.

The Napoleon-Borghese service was on exhibition at the Art Institute of Chicago from Jan. 6, 1924, until Nov. 15, 1932. There is a tradition that Napoleon ordered the major part of the service as a gift for his sister and his brother-in-law, Prince Camille Borghese. The personal furnishings of Mrs. McCormick's homes on Lake Shore drive, Chicago, and at Lake Forest, Ill., will be auctioned also at the Anderson Galleries.

MAN, 70, KILLED AT PARTY IN BOSTON; NEPHEW SEIZED

Victim Said to Have Been Choked and Kicked on Head, Jealousy Disclosed.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Louis Anton-ovitch, 70 years old, was killed at a New Year's party early yesterday and his nephew, William Benson, 40, was arrested on a charge of murder.

Two policemen said they found Benson, a chauffeur, choking his uncle in the kitchen of the Benson home as they rushed into the apartment in answer to screams from Benson's wife, Emily. Antonovitch died in a hospital of a fractured skull. Police said he had been kicked on the face and head.

Victor Morris, 28-year-old brother of Mrs. Benson, who himself was cut and scratched, said he had tried in vain to separate the men. Morris, who was held as a material witness, said his brother-in-law had been jealous of Mrs. Benson's kindness to her husband's uncle.

HORSE WALKS FASTER THAN MAN

By the Associated Press.
ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 2.—There was an argument about whether a horse or a man could walk faster.
W. W. Brown, a member of the Orlando Riding Club, championed the horse, and his fellow clubman, Hardy Voorhis, said a man could walk faster. Brown mounted his mare, Likely Lady, while Voorhis, a prominent attorney, set out afoot.
News of the argument spread around town and 1200 people flocked to a public park to watch the contest. Around and around the park they walked—the horse and Voorhis. The course was a distance of two and a half miles.
The horse came in 41 seconds ahead of Voorhis.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Three gunmen hunted Michael Regan and shot him to death in the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. May Watley yesterday.

Regan's bride of four months,
Mary, and his mother-in-law, witnessed the killing on the gunmen's second visit to the Watley home.
The first volley of shots was fired through a window when no one answered the doorbell. The second time they pushed their way past Mrs. Watley when she appeared at the door. When Regan, described by police as a gambler with a police record, appeared in the doorway of his room, attired in ja-mamas, they opened fire.

On every fine tobacco plant there are only a few leaves that we buy for Lucky Strike. Not the top leaves—because they are under-developed. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We select only the center leaves—because the center leaves are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. Only the center leaves are used in making Luckies—so round, so firm, so fully packed—free from loose ends that spill out, that cling to lips. Is it any wonder Luckies are mild and smooth? And remember, "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

YOUTH, 18, KILLS FATHER

HAWORTH, N. J., Jan. 21.—Herman Schuerer, 48 years old, was fatally shot in his home yesterday and police held his 18-year-old son, Herman Jr., who signed a statement, the Chief of Police said, confessing the shooting.

The youth, a CWA worker, told detectives that he shot his father after the latter had threatened his mother, Mrs. Mary Schuerer, with death.

His story was corroborated by Mrs. Schuerer and her two daughters, Elizabeth, 20, and Dorothy, 23. Young Schuerer was formally charged with the murder and his mother and sisters were held in bail of $500 each as material witnesses.

YOUTH WHO FIGHTS EXECUTION BY GAS

WALTER R. REPPIN.
CONDEMNED slayer of Vincent Regan, Colorado Springs taxi cab driver, who will be the first to die in Colorado's new lethal gas chamber unless his protest against being used as an "experiment" or an appeal gains him a reprieve. Reppin, who is 18 years old, wrote Gov. Johnson he would rather be hanged than executed in the gas chamber.

JOBLESS MAN STRUCK BY TWO AUTOS, KILLED

Lawrence Lucas, 41, Knocked Down by One Machine, Run Over by Other.

Struck by two automobiles, Lawrence Lucas, unemployed laborer, was killed in front of 4058 Delmar boulevard at 3:10 a. m. yesterday. Lucas walked against the side of a machine driven by Joseph Ford of Granite City, who was east-bound. He fell to the pavement and a car following, driven by Frank Wolff, an attorney, 1252 North Euclid avenue, passed over his body. He was pronounced dead at City Hospital.

Lucas, 41 years old, lived at the home of his stepfather, Mrs. Iris Dalymple, 4253A West Evans avenue. His wife, Anna, and son, Robert, live at Mansfield, Mo. Robert will be at Salem, Mo., the family home.

The fatality was the first of the new year. In 1933 there were 146 motor vehicle fatalities in St. Louis.

Youth Helping Push Stalled Auto Hit by Another Machine. Francis Vogt, 15 years old, 7700 South Broadway, helping a man push a stalled automobile in front of the Vogt home early yesterday, was struck by a roadster, the driver of which failed to stop. He suffered a fractured leg.

Three persons were hurt in a collision of two automobiles at Leffingwell avenue and Washington boulevard early yesterday. Charles Costello, 28-year-old lead worker, 2223 Barrett street, was knocked unconscious when his machine hit a street light standard after colliding with an automobile driven by Steve Lleskiewicz, chauffeur, 4650 Carrie avenue. Miss Josephine Roth of Clayton and Miss Helen Gorman, 5936 Bartmer avenue, riding with Lleskiewicz, were cut and bruised. Costello, taken to City Hospital with a skull injury, was found to have $1898 in his pockets.

Ernest Eberts, proprietor of a tavern, suffered fractures of the leg and arm when struck at Sixteenth and State streets, East St. Louis, at 5:40 p. m. yesterday by an automobile driven by John M. Brokus, a railroad engineer, 839A North Thirteenth street, East St. Louis. Eberts, who lives at 3136 Bellevue avenue, East St. Louis, is in St. Mary's Hospital.

Mrs. Evelyn Todd, 1508 Elliot avenue, suffered fractured ribs when a machine in which she was riding collided head-on with another automobile on the Municipal Bridge last night.

Relieve a headache
the Bromo-Seltzer way

HEADACHES are very often accompanied by a lowered alkaline reserve in the system, so it's wise to use a remedy which supplies alkali. Bromo-Seltzer not only stops the pain quickly, but it supplies needed alkali.

No mere pain-killing tablet or powder can give the same complete results. Bromo-Seltzer is a balanced compound of six different ingredients, each with a special purpose, each with a special benefit. And Bromo-Seltzer works faster because you take it as a liquid.

Keep a bottle in your medicine cabinet. Ready at a moment's notice to relieve headaches, neuralgia, or other pains of nerve origin. Best of all, Bromo-Seltzer is pleasant and dependable and it doesn't upset the stomach. Just be sure of the one and only "Emerson's" Bromo-Seltzer—the standby for over forty years.

ederal Trade Commission Denies That New Law
Has Restrained Flow
Capital Into Business.

OLD OUTSTANDING PERMANENT REFORM

igned to Prevent Exploitation of Investors—
Utilities and Chain Stores Among Subjects of Investigation.

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The act criticized "Truth in Securities" Act is asserted by the Federal Trade Commission, the act's administrator, to offer no "serious obstacle to the legitimate financing of legitimate business."
The commission made this statement in its annual report to Congress for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, in reply to charges that the act had restrained the flow of new capital into business and industry owing to too stringent provisions as to liability of promoters.

Characterizing the act as "perhaps the most outstanding of the permanent reform legislation passed at the special session of Congress in 1933," the commission said its "began a new era in the history of the commission," and that:
"The commission believes that proper and efficient administration of the act will prevent a large part of the frauds that have heretofore been practiced upon the public in the sale of worthless securities."

To Prevent Gouging Public.
"It will be the purpose of the Federal Trade Commission, under the authority of this act, to prevent further exploitation of the public by the sale of fraudulent and worthless securities through misrepresentation, to cause to be placed adequate and true information before investors and to protect honest enterprise seeking capital by honest representations against competition made by securities offered through dishonest promotion and misrepresentation."

"While the commission intends to administer the act so as to give investors full and accurate information, neither the act nor its administration will offer any serious obstacle to the legitimate financing of legitimate business."
"Even speculative securities may still be offered, and the public will be as free as ever to buy them since this act is meant in no way to substitute the judgment of the Government for that of the individual investor as to the wisdom or advisability of making any particular investment."

Other Investigations.
The commission's report also detailed its investigations into power and gas utilities, chain stores, cottonseed prices, price bases, the cement industry and building materials.

during the fiscal year into the addition of nine large utility groups which groups have generated about 18 per cent of the total electricity produced in the United States. The commission said it expected to have the entire study completed by June 1934, with recommendations as to legislation, monopolistic practices and the virtues of holding companies.

Twenty-six reports have been sent to Congress on chain stores, especially emphasizing relationships with independents as to prices and methods of competition. In one report it was suggested that certain sales practices might constitute illegal competition.

The report said the cottonseed inquiry into alleged unlawful competition to lower and fix prices by cottonseed oil mills had given the commission "reason to believe that certain activities and practices of the cottonseed industry were in violation of the law."

Trade Rules Abused.
The commission said the trade practice rules adopted in 1928 were abused both individually by members of the industry and co-opera-tively through trade association activities. The commission, therefore, rescinded its previous approval of the 1928 trade practice rules.

As for the cement industry, the commission found that its pricing system had a tendency to reduce price competition.

A report on whether price fixing had been resorted to in the sale of building materials to the Government is being prepared for presentation to the Senate.

The commission was shown to have issued 66 orders for firms to cease various unfair competitive practices during the fiscal year.
Thirty-seven of the orders were subject to contest, 25 were confirmed by the infringing parties, and our went by default. The commission rescinded one order.

Italy to Take Its Industrial Affairs Entirely Out of Politics

Council of Corporations, Mussolini Presiding, to Enact Laws for Business, Independent of Deputies.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Jan. 2.—Complete severance of alliances between politics and business is among the proclaimed purposes of the new cor-porative system to be established in Italy this month, a system based on the new Fascist philosophy.
The separation is to be accomplished by giving business its own law-making institution, where it may openly and directly enact the legislation it considers necessary for its protection.

Legislative privileges vested in the new institution—the National Council of Corporations—will be taken from the Chamber of Deputies, and instead of being subject to approval by a political body, the laws will be enacted by the business men themselves.
The council, however, is to be made up of both employees and employers, and the representatives of the workers will have equal voice in decisions.
Corporations may draft laws and submit them to the council, which will discuss them with a view to harmonizing them with the interests of other lines of endeavor and those of the consuming public.
The state will be present in the person of Premier Mussolini to protect the collective interests of the nation. Mussolini will preside over the council, and without his approval no measure can become law.

Mussolini has said he wanted a medium-sized industrial structure for Italy, strengthened by union in corporate make-up and protected against the encroachment of newcomers when the consuming market is already adequately served.
He is willing to guarantee this industry a "Fascist margin of profit" which must be fair alike to consumer and producer, but is not likely to permit the accumulation of large fortunes.

NEW ENGLAND COUNCIL FOR LIMITING RELIEF

Warns Against Idea of Looking on Government as Means of Support.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—A joint statement of tax officials of the six New England States, made public here yesterday through the New England Council, called for restriction of relief measures and a "restoration" of real estate, "to its essential place as the most attractive class of property to own."

The statement, "noted with satisfaction the trend toward increasing tax consciousness and the growing concern over the employment of identical tax bases by governmental agencies, the multiplicity of overlapping taxing jurisdictions and the constantly increasing burdens upon real estate."
"It should also be a source of satisfaction, to the residents of New England," the statement said,
"that this section of the country has already accomplished considerable reduction of the burden of expenditures by municipalities and that in the main New England is on a far sounder basis with reference to town and city finances than is true in other parts of the country."

"It is believed we should voice a warning against the danger of carrying too far so-called relief measures. Not only is there menace to our financial structure in encouraging people to believe that they may look upon the Government as a means of support, but a still greater menace in character-forming habit which such a practice tends to cultivate."
Discussing the need of restoring real estate values, the statement said: "The return of this class of property to its normal place in our structure of value will be retarded, if not indeed rendered altogether impossible, by continued drains resulting from the expansion and institution and support of new governmental activities which demand ever-increasing tax contributions from owners of real estate—a demand to which already many are impotent to respond."

"To the extent that demands for governmental service continue to increase, it would appear that they must be satisfied through the broadening of the tax base so far as such expansion of governmental activities cannot fairly be avoided.
Such an undertaking should be entered upon with sedulous regard for both of those theories of taxation commonly referred to as the benefit theory and the ability to pay theory. Neither can be wholly substituted for the other and each must be supplementary to the other."

FUNERAL OF SLAIN PREMIER

BUCHAREST, Jan. 2.—Ion G.
Duca, assassinated Premier of Rumania, was buried today with military ceremony. His coffin, adorned with a wreath of red lilies sent by King Carol, was borne through the streets of the capital on a gun carriage drawn by six horses. King Carol, himself, was not among the dignitaries who walked behind the gun carriage, because it was announced he had a cold.
Meanwhile the King and other members of the Government were attempting to persuade Nicholas Titulescu, Foreign Minister, to resign his decision to resign from the Cabinet. Titulescu announced he would quit his post as a protest against conditions which permitted the killing of Duca last Friday by an anti-Semitic Iron guard member.

JAPANESE RESIDENTS LEAVE FOOCHOW, CENTER OF REVOLT

Quit City as Precaution Against Danger of Bombing Attack by Nanking Government.

By the Associated Press.
FOOCHOW, China, Jan. 2.—All Japanese residents of Foochow evacuated this center of the Fukien Province anti-Nanking revolt today. They were moved to Nantai Island in the South Min River, where hundreds of other foreigners, including Americans, already had taken refuge from threatened Nationalist Government bombing attacks.
Evacuation began several days ago, when the Nationalist Government at Nanking warned foreign Powers to withdraw their Nationals from dangerous zones in the province. There was nothing to indicate whether the National Government planned a renewal of the air raids on Foochow—the last of which threw the city into a panic Christmas day.

G. O. P. TO BACK PROGRESSIVES OF PARTY IN SENATE RACES

Committee for Fall Campaign Formed; McNary Says There Will Be No Discrimination.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Appointment of a Republican senatorial campaign committee to support all party senatorial candidates for re-election next fall regardless of whether they are progressives or standpatters, has been announced by Republican Senate Leader Mc-Nary of Oregon. Senator Hastings of Delaware was designated chairman.

"There will be no discrimination with respect to the definition of the word Republicanism," McNary said. "Funds will be raised by the committee in an active campaign to be waged with headquarters at New York and a branch office at Chicago."

Other members of the committee are Senators Dickinson of Iowa, vice-chairman; Capper, Kansas;
Norbeck, South Dakota; White, Maine; Nye, North Dakota; Barbour, New Jersey; Steiwer, Oregon, and Carey, Wyoming.

Fourteen Republican Senators, 14 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite will be up for re-election in the fall campaigns.

EXTENSION URGED ON THE PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE ACT

Two Peace Associations
Ask President to Have Expiration Date Deferred
by Congress.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Action by the President to extend the expiration date of the Hare-Hawes-Cutting Philippine Independence act, which lapses Jan. 17, was urged yesterday in a memorial sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association and the World Peace Foundation of Boston.

Extension of the date was suggested "in order to give time to work out a fair and equitable arrangement satisfactory to both the Philippines and the United States."
The committee submitted a six-point program and listed numerous objections to the present independence bill.

Stating that Congress had the choice either of allowing the Hare-Cutting bill to lapse, amend it, or enact new legislation, and that either of the latter two might "lead to ill-considered legislation," the committee recommended that the President ask Congress to extend the expiration date, and then appoint a commission to work out a settlement.

Detailed Recommendations.
The six-point program recommended was:

- 1.—The Philippines should at once be given a system of responsible government, subject to certain restricted rights of intervention by an American Government-General.
- 2.—While enjoying this status,
the islands should have the right to conclude certain treaties and to be represented at international conferences.
- 3.—This period of responsible government should terminate at the end of 10 years, subject to the conclusion of an international neutralization agreement.

For Naval Base Surrender.

- 4.—The United States should surrender all naval bases in the Philippines to take effect on neutralization and independence.
- 5.—Philippine neutralization agreement should be negotiated as part of a settlement of larger Pacific issues at the naval con-

HITLER CREDITS SELF WITH HAVING IMPROVED NATION

At Reception for Diplomatic Corps, He Praises Hindenburg for Having Given Him the Reins.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler told President Paul von Hindenburg -- a New Year's reception yesterday that the German nation entered a brighter future when the aged President on last Jan. 30 entrusted to him the office of the chief executive.

Crediting Von Hindenburg with having initiated a long absent unity in the nation, Hitler said "the power issuing therefrom enabled us to cement the Reich firmly together, call a halt in the religious, moral,
and cultural decay, and to improve the country's economic position."
"Thanks to your confidence in me and the Government, we have been enabled, while guarding our honor and rights to equal treatment, to pursue a policy whose ultimate aim is, was, and will remain a true and sincere peace."

Hitler at His Side.

President von Hindenburg, wearing an evening dress suit adorned with the highest military decorations and with the comparatively young Chancellor, in evening dress at his side, received the diplomatic corps and Government officials in the first New Year's function in the Nazi Third Reich.

Germany's expressed desire for peace furnished the burden of messages exchanged between the President and the papal nuncio, Cesare Orsenigo, dean of the diplomatic corps.

After felicitating the venerable President on his excellent health,

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all, never favor the privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by executive, legislative or predatory power.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Note on Heredity vs. Environment.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ARTHUR BRISBANE, in speaking of Dr. Knud Rasmussen, who had expounded the theory of the Eskimo from the North American Indian, states that this theory should interest those who believe that man is a product of his environment.

That should interest supporters of the idea that man is produced by his environment, but from a different angle. It only proves that there is great room for doubt concerning this idea.

Man is not a product of his environment. He adapts himself to it. Physically, the Eskimo was not produced by his surroundings, for he has the same straight, coarse black hair, almost the same physiognomy and color as the Indian.

The difference in height and variations of the foregoing attributes can be laid to the uncertain degree of mixture between the Eskimos and the Northern European and Mongolian races (Chukchi, Aleuts, etc.).

Man is a product of his environment only in so far as his daily manner of living is concerned. Also, when speaking from the point of view of culture and civilization, although we are concerned primarily with him physically, has either the Eskimo or Indian outstripped the other along these all-important pathways?

In speaking of the coloring power of the sun's actinic rays, Mr. Brisbane states that the fair-haired, blue-eyed people (O. Sweetheart of Sigma Chi) in their conquering expeditions to the south, were in the process absorbed—the inference being that the sun's actinic rays produced the absorption and turned these superb (?) Aryans into the black-haired, olive-skinned people of the North. Not so!

The skin of the parents of a child may undergo a slight change in color depending on the locality in which they live, but the child will have the same color of skin and general physical attributes as the race from which he comes. To prove my point, I will mention that in various parts of Italy and France, when the "conquering blonds" settled and kept themselves fairly pure, we find the same type blonds today, with slight variations relative to their purity.

Therefore, man is only to a superficial degree a product of his surroundings. I am not speaking of the influence of environment on his mentality.

BERNARD A. EHRENREICH.

That Visiting Bishop.

RECENTLY the papers quoted a visiting Bishop saying that he was tired of this preaching about unemployment and depression. Before dawn the next day, near where he preached, several hundred men began assembling before the CWA registration office. It was a cold morning; the wind was penetrating; not all the men had overcoats.

Possibly the Bishop is right; maybe the church is no place to mention unemployment and such worldly matters. Maybe it is better to keep our thoughts above these sordid details. But many people facing daily the terrible tragedies of unemployment, let their minds wander from the contemplation of heavenly bliss to these petty temporal irritations.

ERNEST B. LEVER.

In Reply to Mr. Reed.

JAMES A. REED, former Senator of Missouri, was recently quoted as follows:

The Government is interfering with every man's business, assuming that the business of the United States can best be conducted by a group of gentlemen who have never transacted any business in their lives.

As to whether or not they are interfering with every man's business, that is a matter of personal opinion and, in the end, the business men of the country will run their own businesses as they have always done in the past.

As to the business of the United States being conducted by a group of gentlemen who have never transacted any business in their lives, it is evident that Mr. Reed does not seem to be well informed.

There are a number of outstanding men advising with President Roosevelt and helping conduct the business of the United States.

The world is seeking and praying for constructive suggestions, not unfair criticism.

LOUIS J. HAENNEL.

How Sound is the Gold Standard?

IN 1929, 38 nations were operating on the gold standard. By Sept. 21, 1931, when Great Britain suspended gold payments, the gold standard had been abandoned by 38 nations.

The United States held on for another 18 months, until March, 1933, when the gold base underlying our financial structure gave way, and the structure collapsed, forcing us off the gold standard.

France, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland are hanging on, but the golden threads are likely to break at any moment.

A monetary system that is so deficient that 34 nations are forced to abandon it, within a short period of four years, does not bespeak much for its soundness, regardless of what Messrs. Hoover, Smith, Glass, Kelllogg and other notables may say.

INFLATION AND STATESMANSHIP.

Despite the jubilee among silver men since the President issued his silver purchasing order, there is no wide disposition to exaggerate the effect of the order upon the national economy. This is something quite apart from the debate over bimetalism.

Silver mining in the Western states has been accelerated; but silver mining, despite its great political influence, is of less importance than some of its corollaries. In Mexico, which produces almost half the world's silver, the price of the metal is more important. This is because several other minerals, including gold, are by-products of silver mining. When it is unprofitable to mine silver, all mining suffers.

The effect upon silver prices abroad is uncertain, but as the result of this new policy will be to withdraw from the market almost the whole American production, it will undoubtedly be a bullish factor in the world silver market. To assume, however, that the world price will rise to the Government-guaranteed American price is to overlook the facts of the world silver market. In 1932, America produced about 15 per cent of the world's silver, and it is hardly likely that the withdrawal of that amount from the market will boost world prices by 50 per cent.

Yet silver producers in the rest of the world, and the Indian and Spanish governments, which have stocks of silver for sale, will undoubtedly reap some benefit from this policy, a benefit which will come largely from the pocket of the American taxpayer.

Senator Pittman and other silver spokesmen have hailed this silver purchase as an action of great international monetary significance, that will increase sharply the purchasing power of South America and Asia for American goods. Yet whatever rise may follow in the world price of silver will have no effect on the value of the monetary units of South America and India. Although these countries use silver extensively for subsidiary coinage, they are not on the silver standard, and changes in the price of silver no more affect the value of their monetary units than changes in the price of nickel affect the value of the American 5-cent piece.

Only in the case of silver standard countries, of which China is the sole one of any importance, will a rise in the price of silver affect the value of the currency. It is worth noting, however, that it will be the world price of silver, whatever that may be, and not the American price, that will determine the value of the Chinese dollar. It has been the claim of the silver spokesmen that the fall in the gold price of silver has been an important factor in the depression, by reducing the purchasing power of China, and that an increase in the price of silver will raise the purchasing power of China.

President Roosevelt's proclamation, with its statement that this silver purchase plan will "augment the purchasing power of peoples in silver-using countries," seems to subscribe to this view. The opponents of silver insist that such a notion rests upon a misunderstanding of international trade; that a country's purchasing power abroad is not determined by the value of its monetary unit, but by the goods it can sell abroad.

The opponents of silver insist that the decline in the price of silver has no more ruined the purchasing power of China than the decline in the French franc of pre-war days from 193 cents to one-fifth of that figure after the war reduced the purchasing power of France; that China, far from being ruined as a customer of the United States during the years when the price of silver was falling, maintained her purchases of American goods better than the gold standard countries did. The idea that the purchasing power of China was ruined by the fall in silver they hold to be a figment of political imagination, and the idea that her purchasing power will be restored by a rise in the price of silver they term a product of the same nature.

The President is fighting inflation, as opposed to the Government's policy of expanding the national credit. He is, to a degree, giving silver the benefit of the doubt. He is afraid of money made too cheap, a fear shared in all responsible quarters. There is no justification for cheapening money in the way some members of Congress have in mind, and the President is fighting it with shrewd counter-moves. This is statesmanship, as opposed to scattering misadventure money from airplanes, as some of our misguided anti-inflationists are doing.

Meanwhile, 16 Senators have joined in demanding the free coinage of silver. In the way the world is going, it is not improbable that bimetalism may return. In that case, we can judge it by its works. Like Banquo's ghost, it will not down. One can only hope that, once the issue is settled, it will remain settled.

Since he always goes to the barber for a shave, Vice-President Garner, presumably, is unaware of the progress that has not been made in safety razor blades.

TAX-EXEMPT SECURITIES.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona has long urged the elimination of tax-exempt securities, as a measure of economic justice and as a means of stopping tax avoidance. Like many others, however, he has considered a constitutional amendment necessary to bring about this reform, and not long ago proposed a resolution to that effect in the Senate. After further study of the matter, however, Senator Ashurst announced recently that he no longer considered an amendment necessary, but would work for passage of a law by Congress giving it power to tax the income from Government, state and municipal bonds.

The Arizona Senator thus concurs in the view that the sixteenth, or income tax, amendment means exactly what it says: "Congress shall have the power to lay and collect taxes on incomes from whatever sources derived." There have been indications in past decisions that the Supreme Court would uphold a law ending such tax exemption, in view of the unmistakable language of the amendment.

Tax authorities have contended that the holes in the income tax laws can never be completely closed so long as the privilege of tax exemption remains for these important classes of securities, now totaling some $8 billions. Lower interest rates, of course, partly compensate for the privilege, but the upper bracket income groups save in income tax far more than they lose in lower interest by buying tax-exempt bonds. Estimates of the annual loss to the Government range from $240,000,000 to $750,000,000. Cordell Hull, now Secretary of State, has said: "It is unwise to create a class in this country which cannot be reached for tax purposes." Yet that is precisely what we have been doing under our present system.

Senator Clark of Missouri, in a proposed amendment to the Recovery Act in the special session, sought to end this evil, but lost his fight, after passage of the measure by the Senate, because the conferees feared it would be unconstitutional. We wish Senator Ashurst better success.

A GOOD BEGINNING.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia has just taken office as Mayor of New York, but he has already written a shining chapter in the history of municipal government. He is a reformer who means business, as his appointments testify. There is not a professional politician in the common sense, in his cabinet, and most of it was filled before the Mayor-elect got around to appointing a Republican, despite the fact that the regular Republican organization lined up for him in the campaign. He has chosen his aids for their fitness for the duties which they will be called on to perform.

Langdon W. Post, Tenement House Commissioner, distinguished himself in the New York Legislature as a friend of social legislation. Paul Blinnhard, Commissioner of Accounts, has fought Tammany in season and out as a Socialist and wrote, with Norman Thomas, "What's the Matter With New York?" Irving Ben Cooper, counsel to the Commissioner of Accounts, was Samuel Seabury's right-hand man in his investigation of Tammany. Equally qualified for their posts are the new Police Commissioner, former Major-General John F. O'Ryan, and the Chamberlain, Prof. A. A. Berle, Jr., who is also one of the Roosevelt advisers.

The latter, incidentally, has done the extraordinary thing of announcing that he will work for the abolition of his office, accepting it temporarily in order to give formal standing to his position.

As a result of these fine appointments and the progressive statements of policy by the new Mayor, the nation's largest city is looking forward to the most promising administration since Seth Low was elected 32 years ago. When Maj. LaGuardia lost his seat in Congress in the Roosevelt overturn, we predicted that he would not long be out of public service. He is back, and with an opportunity to do good such as come to few office holders. Judging by his early activities, he will make the most of it.

NO AMENDMENT NEEDED.

Responding to Gov. Park's request, the Missouri House early in the present special session of the Legislature passed a measure removing the 25,000-acre limitation on land which could be acquired by the Federal Government in any one Missouri county. As amended by the Senate, the bill would still contain a limitation of 100,000 acres per county. The House proposal is the better of the two, and if the Legislature wishes to further the interest of progressive reforestation, and hence the economic welfare of Missouri, it will approve the measure as introduced by Representative Henry of Shannon County. The average size of the 151 national forests in the United States is well in excess of 1,000,000 acres. Parcels of 100,000 acres in the adjacent corners of four counties would establish a preserve of only 400,000 acres under the Senate amendment. This difference would put Federal forestry work to a disadvantage in Missouri. It is only fair to ask the sponsors of the amendment to explain why a State ideally suited for national forests should deliberately impose such a restriction on its own good.

RESULTS OF LOWER AUTO FEES.

While Missouri is talking about reducing registration fees for automobiles and raising the gasoline tax a cent a gallon, which would not only nullify the registration reduction, but actually increase the cost of operating a car, it might be well to consider what some other states have been doing. Fourteen states have cut their registration fees. In four of those states, Arkansas, Georgia, Kansas and Nebraska, the lower fees have been in effect for some time, and the number of registrations has substantially increased as compared with a year ago. Georgia gained 25,000 cars, says the American Automobile Association.

Attention is directed to another point. Some of the states where increased registration has followed a reduction in license fees were hit unusually hard by the depression. The logical inference is that reduction in taxes stimulates the purchase and use of the automobile, just as excessive taxation produces the opposite effect.

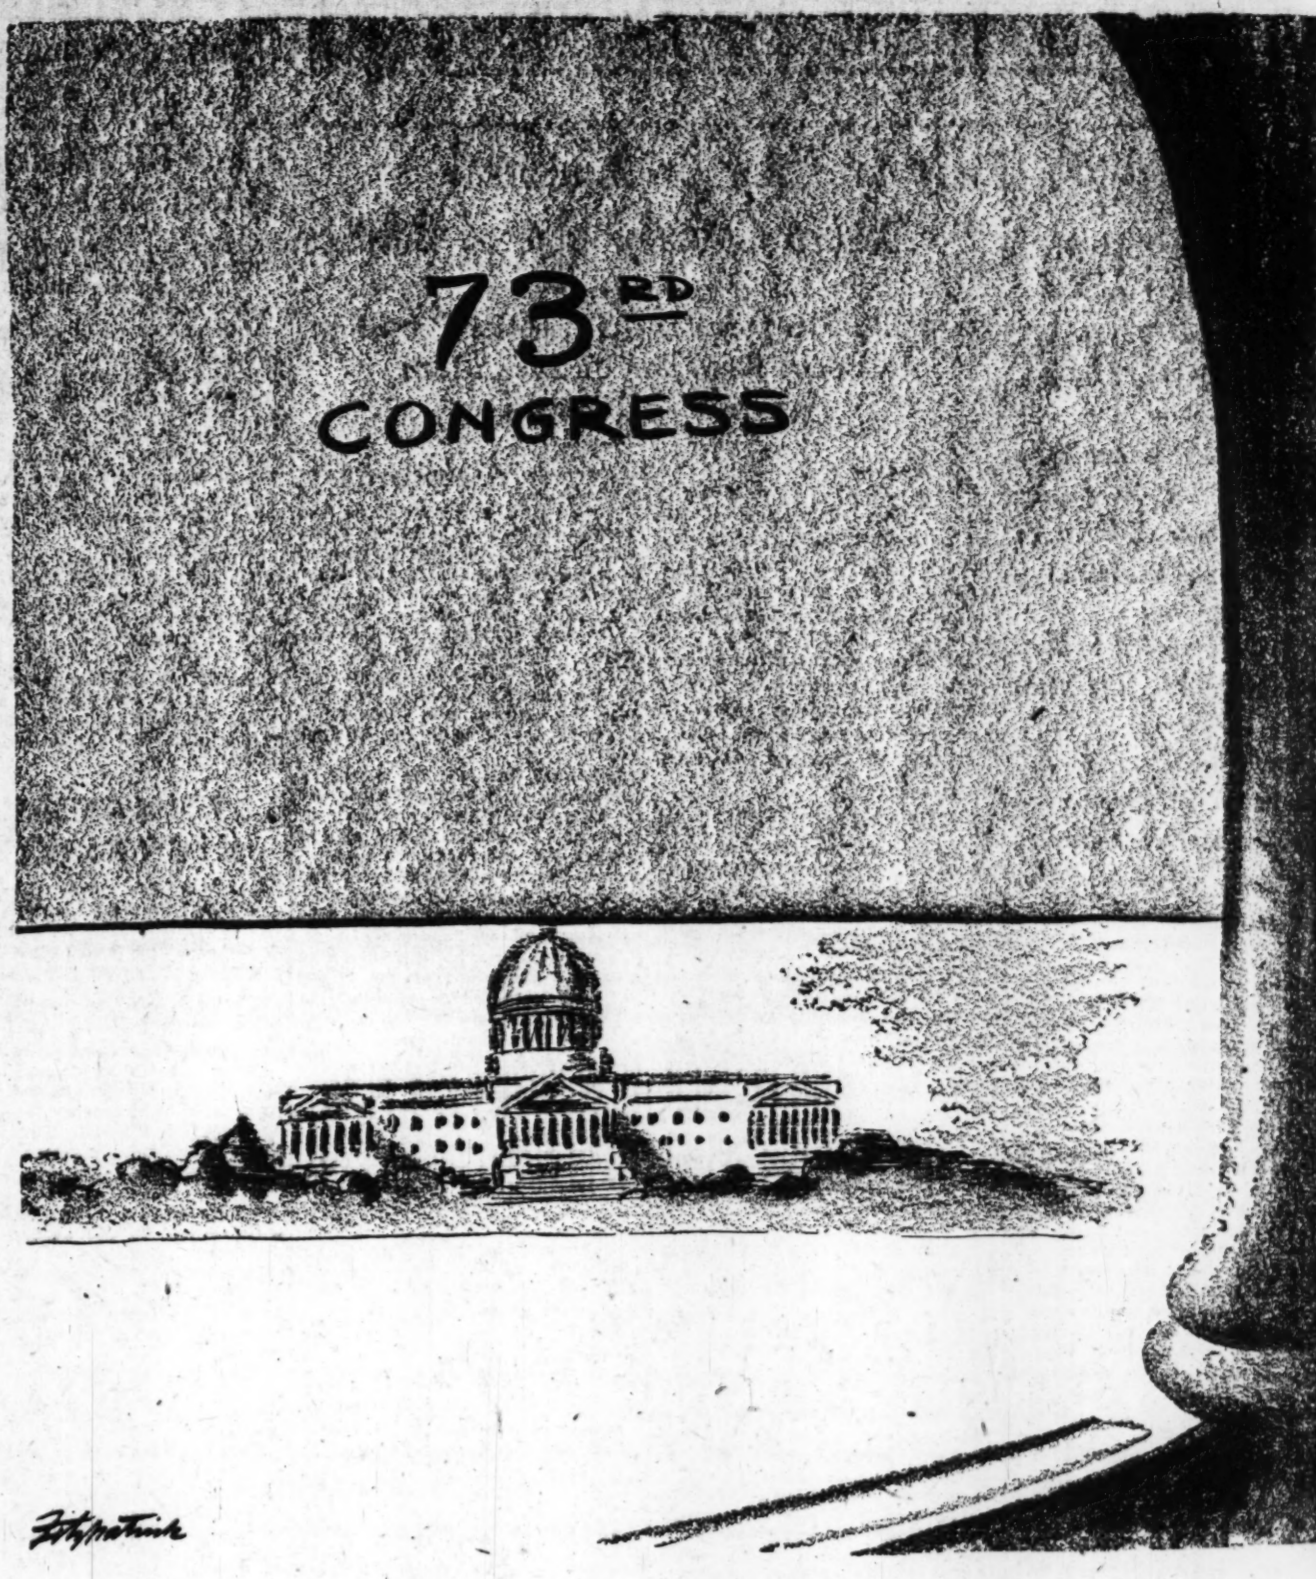

That, of course, is one of the oldest truths in the entire philosophy and practice of taxation; but it is a truth which the world has stubbornly refused to recognize. Proponents of reducing the license fee in Missouri, some of whom have specialized in automobile revenues and highway construction and maintenance, believe a reduction in license fees might augment the road revenues and, certainly, would not seriously diminish that income. Their contention is borne out, in part, by the experience of other states. Missouri ought to look around a bit.

MESSAGES TO CONGRESS.

Preparations made today at the national Capitol indicate that when Congress convenes tomorrow for its first session under the Norris amendment, it will hear the executive message from the lips of President Roosevelt, and not as read by a presidential secretary. Advisers have urged the President to appear before a joint meeting of the House and Senate, and apparently he has decided to follow their suggestion.

If the President follows this suggestion, he will revive the custom followed by only four of his 30 predecessors. Washington, who looked on the presidential message to Congress as an important function of the chief executive, set the example of a personal appearance, and John Adams, his successor, likewise went to the national legislature to deliver his annual address. With the inauguration of Jefferson, this practice lapsed, and no President took it up again until Woodrow Wilson revived it with particular effectiveness at the special session of Congress with which he opened his historic first term in 1913. Harding followed his predecessor's example, but it was abandoned in the Coolidge and the Hoover administrations, save on the occasion of Mr. Hoover's unexpected and unhappy visit to the Senate during the revenue bill debate in May, 1932.

There are good reasons why President Roosevelt might well decide to follow the suggestion of his advisers. He holds to the Wilson view of the presidency, namely, that the head of the national Government should be a real leader, not merely an executive superintendant. In stating his case, he has had few equals, and fewer still, if any, superiors in public life. The response to his leadership and to his radio reports to the people is ample proof of the popularity of both. The President will make no mistake if he bears his own message to Congress.

OPENING ACT 2 OF THE NEW DEAL.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Armed Intervention

LAST week, on the anniversary of Woodrow Wilson's birthday, the President made an address dealing with our policy in Latin America. He said that the time has come "to supplement and to implement" President Wilson's declaration at Mobile in 1913 "that the United States will never again seek one additional foot of territory by conquest."

President Roosevelt's "supplement" is to declare that "from now on" the United States is "opposed to armed intervention." He "implemented" his promise by saying that if intervention "becomes necessary," it is now "the joint concern of a whole continent." In other words, the President has promised that he is opposed to sending armed forces into a Latin American country on the decision of the United States alone.

This promise has an immediate practical bearing upon our relations with Cuba. It calls for the abrogation of Article III of the Platt amendment, which is embodied in the permanent treaty (ratified in 1904) between Cuba and the United States. Under this article, Cuba "consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty."

For clearly, if we are giving up the right to intervene anywhere in Latin America when we think it necessary, we have to give up that right as given to us specifically in our treaty with Cuba.

There are excellent reasons for giving up the Platt amendment. The Cubans dislike it. The rest of Latin America dislikes it. We were to intervene in Cuba under it, our legal position would be correct, but our moral and political position would be no better than if the Platt amendment had never existed. It is, therefore, an empty right. It produces suspicion even when it is not exercised, and it does nothing to allay hostility when it is exercised.

If ever it became necessary to intervene in Cuba, we should have to find a better justification than the Platt amendment. We should have to obtain a mandate from the public opinion of Latin America. So there is no point in preserving a legal right which has ceased to be a real right.

This would seem to be the first definite consequence of President Roosevelt's declaration. Others must surely be implied, and it may be useful, therefore, to fix in mind the broad outlines of our policy toward Latin America.

The foundation was laid in Washington's rule about avoiding political connections with Europe. In 1823, President Monroe was faced with the double threat of a Russian advance down the Pacific Coast from Alaska and of a war in South America to reconquer the rebellious Spanish colonies. He enunciated the Monroe Doctrine, which stated that the United States would "consider any attempt on their (i. e. Europe's) part to extend their system to any portion of our hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety."

This doctrine we have maintained successfully against many attempts to infringe it, from the time when Clay, in 1823, prevented the sale of Cuba to France, until 1912, when Senator Lodge opposed the leasing of Magdalena Bay to Japanese interests. We may call this the simple Monroe Doctrine. Under it, we are prepared to go to war to prevent any European or Asiatic Power from obtaining new territory in this hemisphere.

That was the whole of the doctrine until about 1902. Throughout the nineteenth century, we did not oppose European intervention in Latin America provided the acquisition of new territory was not involved, and there were at least half a dozen occasions when British war vessels, and Spanish, too, blockaded Latin American ports. But in 1902, when Britain, Italy and Germany blockaded Venezuela to enforce some property claims, Theodore Roosevelt assembled the battle fleet at Puerto Rico and ordered the Germans, who were the active party, to desist. This initiated the second phase of the Monroe Doctrine, under which we oppose any armed intervention in this hemisphere.

This led quickly to the third phase. If Europe was to be forbidden to intervene to collect debts or quell disorder, then, said President Roosevelt, we must ourselves be prepared to intervene so as to make that intervention unnecessary. This is usually known as the Roosevelt Corollary, and was proclaimed in 1904. It is under this Corollary that we have repeatedly intervened in the Caribbean region.

The next development occurred under President Coolidge. It may be described as an attempt, which failed, to extend the Monroe Doctrine to include not merely the protection of foreign property against disorder in Latin America but against social reform. This is an ugly chapter in our history. It arose out of the Mexican revolution which, in 1917, declared that the oil and minerals of Mexico were to be the property of the nation. This infringed the vested rights of American and European oil companies.

The State Department made itself the advocate of the oil companies, and President Coolidge, probably without a clear understanding of what he was doing, enunciated the theory that property rights once acquired by foreigners could not be impaired. This flagrant denial of the elementary rights of sovereignty pretty nearly led us into war with Mexico, how nearly the American people have never fully realized. Suffice it to say that at the eleventh hour, President Coolidge saw where he was being led, sent Dwight D. Morrow to Mexico City, and allowed the new Ambassador to extricate the United States from the entanglement into which the oil companies had taken us.

The Morrow mission to Mexico is one of the great diplomatic achievements in our history. It marks the real end of dollar diplomacy and financial imperialism, and the beginning of the policy of friendliness and non-intervention which President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, have sincerely and earnestly been developing ever since.

The perfecting of that policy cannot be achieved by the United States alone. It is possible for us to renounce conquest as President Wilson did in 1913. It is possible for us to renounce the Platt amendment, which President Roosevelt seems to be obligated to do. It is possible for us to renounce the right to intervene to protect property rights against social reform, which is in substance what Ambassador Morrow did. It is possible for us to declare that we are "opposed" to armed intervention by ourselves alone, which is what the President has just done. But we cannot guarantee that there will be no armed intervention if a state of anarchy should break out.

If we are to make good the President's promise that we will not intervene alone, then Pan-America must come forward, must set up appropriate diplomatic machinery, and must enter into undertakings by means of which joint action can be taken quickly if the lives of foreigners are in danger as result of the breakdown of local authority. We should be deceiving ourselves and Latin America and all the world if we did not make this clear.

A state of anarchy will, in the future, in the past, provoke intervention if there is danger to human life. The question whether that intervention will be by international mandate of the Pan-American nations or by our own decision. Unmistakably we wish to relinquish the responsibility of acting alone. Whether we can relinquish depends upon Latin America.

The efficiency of prosecuting agencies. The relation between politics and crime. Police activity in prevention and detection. Unethical lawyers; the extent to which these interfere with law enforcement. Racketeer interference with legitimate business.

A layman scanning this list is impressed by the omission of a tenth subject, inquiry into which might prove most fruitful of all. If the association wishes to do a thorough job, should set its most resourceful and relentless investigators to studying the crowning defect of criminal jurisprudence—the influence of practicing lawyers in state legislatures whereby notable proposals for law reform are commonly defeated.

Surely it would be useful to have on file somewhere a complete record of every measure of law reform which at some time had the endorsement of a bar association of any other group of reputable attorneys. Each of these proposals should be followed to the end. It would be important to know how many lawyers were members of the Legislature which passed upon each, how many lawyers appeared for or against it, and whether, at public hearing, how lawyers actually voted.

Bar Reform Suggestion

From the New York Sun.

THE American Bar Association is to be commended on its initiation of a nationwide study of the defects of criminal jurisprudence. For this undertaking that body is peculiarly qualified. If prosecuted with reasonable zeal and dispatch, the work may produce much good; everything depends upon that "if."

To obtain a body of information on which to base conclusions, the association is inquiring by questionnaire from the following:

The relation between politics and crime. The efficiency of prosecuting agencies. Police activity in prevention and detection. Unethical lawyers; the extent to which these interfere with law enforcement. Racketeer interference with legitimate business.

Kidnaping and punishment of kidnappers. Codes of criminal procedure. Relative efficiency of Federal and state courts in disposing of criminal cases.

WHEN the history of the New Deal is written the chapter on banking policy

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — WHEN the history of the New Deal is written the chapter on banking policy which closed yesterday is going to stand out as the most brilliant in the history of the nation. It is a chapter of brilliant and far-reaching policy. Today the banks of the country are open. The deposit insurance plan is in effect, but actually with the nation between them and the Government almost as confused as on the eve of the banking holiday in March.

Only one thing is definite. The Government, through the R. F. C., has pumped enough money into a lot of banks so that it might as well own them outright. Perhaps in the end it will.

On March 4 Roosevelt promised to give the money-changers out of the temple, and from one way of looking at it he has. But instead of applying the scourge, he held out the R. F. C. feed-bag. He let them stop up and borrow. In the long run a lot of bankers may find themselves "borrowed" out of business, with the United States—their chief creditor—ready to take over.

Bad Story.

THE story of how the Treasury muffed the ball with the banks is a long one and not conducive to sunshine. Between a sick Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Woodin, a green Under-Secretary, Dean Acheson, an even greener Controller-General, "Jeffy" O'Connor, and the ambitious R. F. C. chairman, Hank Jones, the banking ball was tossed back and forth and fell between all four.

One time when the banks were making applications in order to qualify for deposit insurance, they had to submit figures to the Controller-General, the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Deposit Commission, the R. F. C. and to Henry Bruere, supposed to be the banking co-ordinator. And in some cases the deposit requirements of these different outfits varied from each other as much as 40 per cent.

Roosevelt brought Bruere, president of the Bowers Savings Bank, from New York to the Treasury on this tangle. But Bruere seemed only to get tangled up in it himself.

At another time 200 savings banks in New York State worked out a plan by which they would establish a state savings bank system, giving the New York Banking Commission and the Federal Government wide powers of control. The R. F. C. welcomed the plan and promised to advance the necessary money.

But some of the big banks in New York City balked. They said it created a dangerous precedent for state and government control. The Treasury listened. The Big Bankers had their way.

Money Pump.

At the end, the R. F. C. began pumping out money. It is apparent that if one bank fulfilled the requirements for Federal deposit insurance, and a bank just across the street could not, depositors would flock to the insured bank. So to save runs, the R. F. C. bolstered up the other banks—unless they were not worth saving. After all this, it was discovered that large areas of the country were without any banks at all. So about two weeks ago the Treasury asked every small town in the U. S. A. by telegram whether credit facilities were adequate. It had in mind opening Postal Savings to checking accounts where no banks were functioning.

Eventually this may come. Eventually also a lot of banks will be taken over by the Government. This is one of the big reasons why Roosevelt has determined to be his own Secretary of the Treasury.

Over the Line.

ALABAMA'S veteran Representative John McDuffie tells this one on himself.

During his first race for Congress McDuffie visited a number of outlying rural sections and one day met a farmer loaded down with a lot of bundles and leading a mule. "You look tired," said McDuffie. "Suppose you get up on the mule, and I'll carry your bundles."

The man assented, and they trudged along. After a while McDuffie began talking politics and wound up by announcing who he was, and asking the farmer for his vote.

"Are you running in Mississippi?" the latter inquired.

"No, I'm running in the First District in Alabama."

"Well, man, you're wasting your time on me. You are three miles across the Mississippi line and I live right around that bend."

Youth Movement.

ROOSEVELT has been much interested in the Youth Movement. He figures that several millions of youngsters groping for leadership will become among the strongest supporters of the New Deal.

Two of his secretaries—Louise Howe and Steve Early—share this view. For some time they have been working on the idea of mobilizing youth.

To offer their co-operation in this the leaders of the National Student Federation recently appeared at the White House. From Howe and Early they got a warm welcome. But among the three White House secretaries is considerable jealousy—in fact, even more than among the trip secretariat of Hitler's day. Early and Howe do not get along serenely with Marvin Macintyre, the third secretary.

So when the student leaders asked to see Roosevelt they were referred to Macintyre. He refused them with a Communist student group which had been picketing the White House, told them to run away and play.

Merry-Go-Round.

REPRESENTATIVE JIM RMEAD of Buffalo, N. Y., has returned to the House with a full-blown gubernatorial bee buzzing in his bonnet. "He wants to replace Gov. Lehman in Albany. . . . Coast guard officers are worried. . . . Word has come to them that under the plan to consolidate their branch of the service with the navy all officers with less than 10 years duty will be retired."

The James A. Reeds Hold Open House

BACK from a brief honeymoon, the former United States Senator and his bride, who was Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly, held open house at his residence in Kansas City, Mo., yesterday. For three hours a steady stream of guests moved in and out, congratulating the newlyweds and wishing them a Happy New Year.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE old custom of New Year's calling in tallies and coaches was revived yesterday, and gay parties could be seen on the county highways, heralded by trumpeters. The largest was a Dutch treat party arranged by John Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes, and left their home in the St. Louis Country Club grounds about 5 o'clock for a series of late afternoon visits.

Divided into two groups, the party traveled in a tallyho and a coach. Its members included Miss Amelia Overall, Miss Jane Johnson, Miss Betty West, Miss Judith Gamble, Miss Mary Elizabeth Bascom, Miss Mary Pettus, Miss Mary Martha Wren of Washington, who is the guest of T. B. Boyd and his family; Mr. Boyd's Joseph Drew, Harry and Oliver Langenberg, Stratford Lee Morton Jr., Billy Drew, John Overall Jr., Dickson Pierce, William Tupper, Allen T. West Jr., and A. M. Byers of Pittsburg, who came to St. Louis for Miss Jane Johnson's debut ball Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford W. Thompson, 4616 Pershing avenue, entertained at a New Year's day reception yesterday at their home to present to society their daughter, Miss Patricia Gale Thompson. About two hundred guests called between 5 and 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their daughter, who were in the living room which was filled with gift flowers sent the debutante, Miss Thompson, wore a gown of white transparent velvet. The high neck of the bodice was finished with a ruff of the velvet. There were long sleeves and the skirt fitted the figure to the knees where it flared to the floor. She carried yellow roses. Mrs. Thompson was gowned in dark green velvet and wore a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Spring flowers decorated the other rooms of the Thompson home and more of the blossoms adorned the tea table which was lighted by ivory tapers in silver candelabra. The following debutantes served at the tea tables: Miss Jane Johnson, Miss Mary Pettus, Miss Mary Elizabeth Bascom, Miss Martha Nicolaus, Miss Betty Caulk, Miss Elsie Ford, Miss Judith Gamble, Miss Ruth Jane Jones, Miss Peggy Wendling, Miss Betty West, Miss Mary Louise Simpkins, Miss Edwina Prentiss, Miss Delphine Polk and Miss Bonnie Langenberg.

Among the guests was the debutante's cousin, Wirt Lord Thompson of Philadelphia.

Two large New Year's Eve parties were given for the debutantes. Miss Mary Pettus, Miss Betty West, Miss Judith Gamble and Miss Jane Johnson, debutantes, shared honors at a party Sunday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry McRee and Mrs. John H. Overall at the St. Louis Country Club New Year's Eve party. Forty debutantes and their escorts were present.

Miss Carol Randolph, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Randolph of the St. Louis Country Club grounds, was the guest of honor at a similar party given by Mrs. Frederick C. Orthwein at the Bridlepur Hunt Club celebration. A group of the debutantes and their escorts, were present.

Mrs. Oscar Johnson, 38 Portland place, entertained at a luncheon Sunday at her country place, St. Albans, Mo., in honor of her niece, Miss Jane Johnson, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, 16 Portland place. A hundred guests motored to St. Albans where they were entertained at Old Barn Inn. The guests included the debutantes and their escorts.

NO WHITE HOUSE RECEPTION: PRESIDENT WRITES MESSAGE

Change in Date of Opening of Congress Eliminates New Year Custom.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — (The first day of the new year was as usual for President Roosevelt—work and play. Before noon he witnessed the swearing in of his new Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr. He devoted the remainder of the morning to the writing of his budget and state of the union messages to Congress.

It was play during the afternoon as the President visited with members of his family.

Last night he returned to work again at a meeting with congressional leaders to talk over plans for the session opening Wednesday.

Congress still lacked two days of opening, under the new "lame duck" amendment, and there were no New Year's receptions.

Instead of shaking hands with diplomats and high officials all morning, and the populace all afternoon, President Roosevelt, who did not stay up to watch the old year out and the new year in, was conferring with leaders of Congress, including Vice-President Garner.

FIRST POPULAR CONCERT OF YEAR BY SYMPHONY

Small House at Odeon Hears Program Featuring Tchaikowsky Work.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra opened this year with its first popular concert last night at the Odeon, playing to a very small house. The program, which seemed to symbolize the end of the holiday week rather than the commencement of a new year, began appropriately with Berlioz' "Roman Carnival" and ended with the doleful Tchaikowsky Fourth Symphony in F minor. There were also two well-known novelties in the first group: Mendelssohn's scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and Dukas' "Sorcerer's Apprentice."

The Tchaikowsky number, which was the apical selection on the program, receded into a oblivion, perhaps, more cordial than it deserved. The symphony is melancholy rather than in its shortcomings than in its subject matter which is replete with a maudlin sadness. The finale, which is alone in possessing some virility and a certain peasant robustness, was rendered faultlessly and with great enthusiasm.

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH F. BOGY

Services Held for Descendant of Pierre Laclede.

The funeral of Joseph Francois Bogy, a descendant of Pierre Laclede, founder of St. Louis, was held today at St. Thomas of Aquin Church, followed by burial in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Bogy, who was 76 years old, died of complications Saturday at his home, 3011 Miami street. He was descended from Laclede both through his mother, who was Melanie Valle, and his father, the late Probate Judge John Lewis Bogy of Ste. Genevieve. He was born in Ste. Genevieve County, came to St. Louis 42 years ago and was connected with the Carleton Dry Goods Co. for 34 years. He is survived by a son, Joseph F. Bogy Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. A. D. Schenk and Mrs. W. C. Kraft, both of St. Louis, and Mrs. W. W. Reps of New York.

H. L. Schaefer, secretary of the Raw Fur and Wool Association, will speak on the "Romance of the Fur Trade" before the Scottish Rite Club at luncheon tomorrow noon at the American Annex Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bush, 6807 Valmar, have had with them for the holidays their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schroth of Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Schroth was guest of honor at a luncheon given the day after Christmas by Miss Catherine Prilla Annan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger P. Annan, 205 Plant avenue, Webster Groves.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Clark, 4943 Lindell boulevard, had with them for the holidays their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harland H. Frazer of New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Frazer arrived about 10 days ago and will remain until the end of the week.

Dr. Thomas S. Duncan, 6163 Pershing avenue, a professor at Washington University, accompanied by his son, Thomas S. Duncan Jr., returned Sunday from a several days' visit in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard E. Wickhoff of Memphis, Tenn., and their young daughter, Jerie Jean, spent Christmas in St. Louis with Mrs. Wickhoff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Flanagan, 4407 Forest Park boulevard. They returned home a few days ago.

Miss Marcella Graf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August V. Graf, 3848 Flad avenue, who is attending the Sorbonne in Paris, France, is spending the Christmas holidays in London, England, as the guest of one of her school companions, Miss Patricia Lowe.

Miss Mildred Blanke, 24 Algonquin lane, Webster Groves, has had as her guests for the school holidays Miss Maya Paine of Los Angeles, Cal., and Miss Gladys Tanner of Miami, Fla.

Miss Helen Schreiber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Schreiber, 5604 Waterman avenue, has been spending the holidays with Miss Marjorie Herzberg of Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Upton, 5004 Vernon avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Muriel Catherine, and Charles Frederick Bessler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Bessler, 6975 Delmar boulevard. No date has been set for the wedding.

'TEN MINUTE ALIBI' KEEPS AUDIENCE TENSE

Bert Lytell at Shubert Theater in a Novelty in Melodramas.

"TEN MINUTE ALIBI," a play in three acts by Anthony Armstrong, presented at the Shubert Theater with the following cast:

Hunter Leonard Lord
Philip Sevilla Cesar Romero
Betty Findon Virginia Miles
Colin Derwent Bert Lytell
Sir Miles Standing Ivan Miller
Inspector Pumber J. Bunkell
Sergeant Brace Derek Fairman

By M. W. CHILDS.

IF the murder committed on the stage of the Shubert this week is not the perfect murder, it is as close to it as a mere playwright may hope to come. This crime has the breathless logic of a problem in geometry and a capacity audience on New Year's eve watched the persistent but ultimately futile, attempts of Scotland Yard to find the solution with a tension that was broken only with the final curtain.

"Ten-Minute Alibi" is a most ingeniously constructed mystery play and it is not difficult to understand why it is one of the current Broadway hits. The cast assembled by Arthur Oberfelder for the St. Louis production is effective. Bert Lytell plays the part of the perfect murderer with convincing understatement and restraint, bringing more reality to it than one ordinarily expects from melodrama.

Lytell, as Colin Derwent, is determined to prevent the girl he loves from going to Paris with an attractive South American who possesses, in the best tradition of melodrama, all villainous qualities. Philip Sevilla's real intention is to send poor Betty Findon, who is desperately infatuated with him, to what was once known as "a fate worse than death" in his native South America. In the flat of Sevilla, where he has come to beg the girl to give up the trip, Colin accepts a drugged cigarette, falls into a stupor and dreams the perfect murder and the perfect alibi.

The following day just before Sevilla and the girl are about to leave for the boat train, he commits the murder almost exactly as he had dreamed it. For the balance of the play the audience watches in sympathetic suspense while Scotland Yard tries to find holes in Colin's story.

For from the first, of course, the sympathy has been with the murderer. From every angle Inspector Pember and Sgt. Brace, "of the Yard," attack the careful, painstaking alibi that Colin has built up to cover the 10 minutes required to commit the murder. This alibi rests on several things, but chiefly on the fact that Colin has set back the clock in Sevilla's flat and then set it right again. Inspector Pember gets very close to this clue but doesn't quite succeed in running it to earth. Having discovered from papers in his safe what a villain this Sevilla was, the Inspector and his Sergeant, who bring a certain humor to their work, are not too eager to prove Colin's guilt. The clock itself very nearly gives Colin away in an ending that comes with a sudden and surprising humor.

While the figures are the construction of the play is so skillful that they seem to have even a kind of originality and freshness. This may be partly because of the quality of the dialogue which moves with a brisk naturalness. The piece is good entertainment and it is worthy of note that St. Louis should see it while it is still new in New York.

FUNERAL FOR W. H. WHEELER

Assistant Professor at Washington U. Died of Pneumonia.

Funeral services for William H. Wheeler, assistant professor of civil engineering at Washington University, were held today at the Parker undertaking establishment, Webster Groves, with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery. Mr. Wheeler, who was 43 years old, died of pneumonia Saturday at his home, 728 Newport avenue, Webster Groves, after being ill a week.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Wheeler attended public schools here and received his degree in engineering at the Ohio Northern University at Ada, O. He enlisted in the Twenty-third Engineers and was in active service in France during the World War. In 1931 and a year ago, he was in charge of scientific prospecting expeditions to determine commercial possibilities of a gold vein in a remote section of Labrador. His widow, a daughter, and two sons, survive.

Debut of Betsy Dern. WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Washington's only Cabinet debutante made her formal bow to society yesterday when the Secretary of War and Mrs. George H. Dern presented their daughter, Miss Betsy Dern, at a reception in their home here.

FUNERAL OF JAMES S. DAVIS

Civil War Veteran, Oldest Member of United Hebrew Congregation. Funeral services for James S. Davis, 86 years old, a Civil War veteran and oldest member of the congregation of United Hebrew Temple, will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Berger funeral chapel, 4715 McPherson avenue. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery.

Mr. Davis died of pneumonia Sunday, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Jacobson, 5585 W. termen avenue. Born in Poland, he had resided in St. Louis 73 years. He served in the Union Army, but never joined the G. O. P. For many years in the clothing business, he was connected with a loan company at the time of his retirement.

Refuge Sought for Freed Bulgarians.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The Reich Ministry of the Interior announced today negotiations were proceeding with foreign governments who are likely to grant hospitality to Georgi Dimitroff and two other Bulgarians acquitted in the recent Reichstag fire trial. Dimitroff, Blagol Popoff and Wassil Tanef have been held in prison at Leipzig since the trial. A committee of four foreigners, alarmed by reports that an attempt would be made on the lives of the Bulgarians, was unsuccessful in an attempt to get permission to escort the three to the border.

ment and handed to the Chancellor a paper in which the French view was set forth in detail.

The communication was the reply of the French Government to Hitler's recent revised arms demands which included, it was understood, a request for a German army of 300,000 men.

The French previously were reported as offering Hitler a German army of 200,000, limitation of the heavier arms, two arms control periods, and other proposals.

Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath attended the interview between the Chancellor and the envoy.

Wise VITAMIN A N'S coughs and colds

Cough Syrup soothes the throat... loosens phlegm... clears the air passages. Then its Primary Vitamin A does two wonderful things.

It aids Nature in driving the cough and cold out of the system faster. And it raises the child's resistance against re-infection.

Even delicate children—with whom every cold was a long siege—now can throw off the infection faster. And they are also strengthened against new coughs and colds.

Smith Brothers' is the ONLY cough syrup giving the priceless benefits of Primary Vitamin A. Children like its taste. Get a bottle today. Only 35c. (Smith Brothers Cough Drops also contain Primary Vitamin A.)

Note to Doctors: 10,000 A.D.M.A. units of Vitamin A (Biologically tested Carotene) have been added to every bottle of Smith Bros. Cough Syrup. For literature please write Smith Bros., Foughkeepsie, N. Y.

In the Congo, and the U. S. A. To Honor Regina and Jakey. Solitary Drinking. He Says We're Bankrupt.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

THE first day of 1934 is gone forever and day No. 2 is on its way to join the days that will never come back. All over the United States, intelligent citizens celebrated the arrival of the new year as inhabitants of the Congo celebrate the arrival of a dead hippopotamus on the river bank, with shouts, yells, horns, bells, drinking and dancing.

This comparison involves no condemnation of the average barbarian, who cannot express joy unless he does howl and make a noise.

According to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, that important city is promoting the erection of monuments to Regina Hartman and Jacob Negley. Regina Hartman's story, cut short, runs as follows:

In 1755, when very small, Indians killed her father and brother and carried her off. Eight years later when she was a dark-skinned grown-up young woman, Regina was returned to her mother, speaking only the Indian language. Recognition seemed hopeless until the mother sang a German hymn that she had taught her child long before. The daughter remembered it, sang the chorus, rushed into her mother's arms. The hymn begins: Allein, allein, und doch nicht ganz allein.

Bin ich in meiner einsamkeit. "Alone, alone, and yet not all alone. Am I in my solitude."

Jacob Negley, "Little Jakey," also German, aged 12, stood with his father's long rifle and covered the retreat of his mother, brothers and sisters as they fled into Fort Ligonier when Indians attacked their home.

Regina Hartman is an ancestress of William Hartman Woodin, former Secretary of the Treasury, and another former Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, is a descendant of Jacob Negley, the little boy who held back the Indians.

Our modern immigration laws will not allow people of that type to enter the United States. We have decided that we "don't need foreigners."

On Saturday last four State-owned liquor stores in Detroit took in $20,000, thousands of citizens forming in lines several blocks long. Other State-owned liquor-selling stores throughout Michigan report "excellent business."

The sight of thousands of citizens carrying home thousands of bottles of liquor is edifying. Michigan will learn gradually what "solitary drinking" means. This country is still far from having settled its drink problem, dropping the prohibition brand of drink foolishness to try other kinds.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University has bad news. The world is bankrupt, says he, and does not know it, or, rather, will not admit it, "in the position of a bank in a small country town that has deposits of $30,000, payable on demand, and $1150 available cash in its vaults."

Governments, national, state, local, and banks and business concerns of the world, owe $300,000,000,000, nearly all payable in gold. And "there exists in the world something less than $12,000,000,000 worth of monetary gold."

You can't pay $300,000,000,000 with $12,000,000,000 in gold, especially when two nations, the United States and France, have nearly all the gold.

Dr. Butler thinks the world should put itself "into the hands of a policy of receivership." That has been done, to some extent, in the United States with the Government as a receiver, trying to organize production, consumption, employment and wages, instead of "trusting to luck," as in the past.

The administration announces that from 18,000,000 to 20,000,000 workers are now operating under NRA regulation of work, hours and wages, controlled by 182 codes.

The trouble seems to have been that this country had too much of everything. Government seeks to arrange that by distributing many billions of dollars and plowing under millions of acres. A nation or individual that has "too much" of everything ought not to worry too much. As for gold, it has always been a "rabbit's foot" superstition, without real importance, except for those that used it to monopolize money.

Announcing a new five-year plan, Russia also announces important Government changes, seeking to make Government power less a private corporation concentrated at Moscow in the hands of Stalin and a few men and spreading authority farther out among the territorial

A MODERN NEW SERIAL

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE.
LORETTA SIMPSON'S cheeks were almost as red as the new crimson coat she was wearing. Her eyes were dancing as she held the small, white rabbit muffed under her chin. They had been quite solemn, even a little frightened when Linda had taken her off the train at seven that morning.

"I have funny dreams, Mrs. Raleigh," she said, taking one hand from the muffed and touching the white rabbit bare that matched the muffed, "dreams that seem real to me. And I've dreamed for such a long time that I had a red coat trimmed in white fur. I saw a picture in a book once, and the girl was wearing a red coat trimmed in white fur. Ever since then, I've dreamed about me and my red coat."

"You must call me Linda, Loretta."

"I didn't know. I wanted to call you that, but I was afraid. Dr. Kim and I always used to speak of you as the Beautiful Lady. You are beautiful, Linda. No wonder Dr. Kim loves you so much."

Linda winced. All morning Loretta had been chattering on about Kim in her childish, delightful way. She adored him. Next to her father she loved him best in the world, she told Linda when they were buying the red coat. With every innocent mention of his name, the girl's shame mounted.

"Do you love him as much as he loves you, Linda?"
"Yes, Loretta," she murmured, taking the child's arm as they crossed a busy street. Kim had told her in his note to pretend everything was the same, but even if he hadn't she would have pretended just the same.

"I guess people can't help but love him," with a sigh. "He's been so good to me, making me feel first and then talking to me so much. He understands my dreams—and even father doesn't understand them, although I try to make him. Not sleeping dreams, Linda. Dreams when I'm awake. Have you ever had dreams like that?"
"Yes—day dreams, we call them."

"That's what I mean. I've a little cubby in the woods where I go when I dream—under the big maple tree away from the house. Father helped me fix it. When I sit down on the moss, it seems as if I'm in another country, some place I've never been before. I forget the house, sometimes I even forget father, although I don't mean to."

"I dream about the books I've read, and people in them. Before I know it, I'm one of the girls in the book but I'm doing different things. Dr. Kim wants me to write down my dreams, but I'm afraid yet—maybe I will some day. I'm so glad I can talk to you like I can to Dr. Kim! Her shining brown eyes met Linda's happily.

"We're going to get your doll now, Loretta."

"Perhaps instead of the doll, I'd better get a notebook and some nice pencils, so when I'm not afraid any more, I can write down my dreams—"

"But you want the doll, dear?"
"Yes—but you've got me so much!" Besides the coat and muffed and beret, Loretta was wearing a new warm blue jersey dress, new stockings and shoes. There were white wool mittens on her hands, and over her arm she was dangling a red purse.

"I must look very nice, Linda," she continued. "Much nicer than the girls I dream about. Much, much nicer. Doctor Kim will be proud of me when we see him, and father won't know me when I get off the train. I'll pretend all the way home—in the buggy that I'm a princess."

Lovely, lovely child. What a joy it would be to have Loretta with her forever! Watch her mind develop, her thoughts expand. Linda wished she could be with her and Simpson in the buggy going home—to see Loretta's interpretation of a princess.

They bought both the doll (it was difficult because Loretta didn't want a doll that mumbled, she wanted one that really talked) and the notebook with a box of pencils and several erasers. Also a copy of "Alice in Wonderland," which Loretta had never read.

At twelve-thirty they found Kim waiting for them outside the Gramont. Thinner, Linda decided at once, older by years. She missed his old infectious smile, for although he had greeted them both, smiling, it wasn't the smile she knew. This was forced, harder. Loretta saw the change, too.

"You're thinner, Doctor Kim. You're different," Linda exclaimed. "I know what's the matter—you've been helping too many people get well."

"I've not changed, Loretta," Loretta shook her head vigorously. "Don't fib, now. You have. And I'm no plain Loretta today, Doctor Kim. I'm her royal highness, the Princess Loretta, if you please!"

Kim laughed, a more natural laugh than his welcoming smile. "I see. I won't make the same mistake again. Shall we have luncheon, your royal highness?" And they went into the dining room.

"What would a princess eat, Doctor Kim? You find something for me."

While Kim was looking over the menu, Linda was studying him more carefully. Thinner, older, cynical? Could Kim ever become cynical? No, he couldn't. Nearly three months since she had seen him. She was wishing that her uncle had told her how much he

Walter Winchell On Broadway

PORTRAIT OF A MAN TALKING TO HIMSELF.

IF AR be it from me to spread gossip or scandal—but have you observed the coincidences?—Annie Doesn't Live Here, Anywhere—and Where's Elmer?—The Palace Royal is now another of my favorite rendezvous. Where the Yacht Club Boys make funny faces and holler sassy songs—where the Boswell sisters boss the blues—where Jeanne Aubert is Frenchier than a postcard, and where Fred Keating of "All Good Americans" doubles after the play with his routine of spellbinding magic—and makes the darndest things disappear—except your check. —Pretty Laura Walters, who was among the Dillingham show lovelies, is so ill at St. Vincent's Hospital in Toledo—desperately combating pneumonia, poor thing. —Wonder if all her one-time admirers, important men and women of New York, will help her? —Oh, Miller's observation is so true. He says that when an author builds a reputation to the point that people will read anything he writes—that's just what he writes.

I like what Mary Pickford did before she opened in her abbreviated version of "The Church Mouse" at the Paramount. In her playlet there was a robust free ad for a well-known chain of local soda-fountain-restaurant places. Miss Pickford sent her representative to the company and suggested that they donate $1000 to the Actors' Dinner Club, a worthy group which feeds theater people gratis daily. —The firm decided it would give only $200 for the advertisement. —So Mary jerked the line, for which Cantor and some of us realize that because of the free admissions to radio entertainments in Rockefeller Center—on certain nights many Broadway theaters are not crowded. —It was thought that if the sponsors of the free shows were to ask the spectators to donate a dime to the various theatrical charities—that would be a nice gesture.

The expression "carrying the torch" is, I agree with a pal, a little dated. —He suggests that it be revised to "carrying the beacon"—which he has been doing so long he's sun-tanned. —One day soon I'll holiday while I fill the pillar with Howard Swain's grand letter, in which he cynically relates the other side of the newspaper game. —Howard argues I am fortunate, for I have never stopped being a cub. —A cubant? —Other lads say that the newspaper profession is a tough habit. —Mebbeso—but better than cocaine. —I go for the way Gertrude Nielsen wails "More Than You Know"—with the sadness of a bereaved oriole.

The fact is, that if I put a line or two or three about the incident in the column—the mice will say: "Get a load of Winchell squawking! After the way he has been cracking the whip all these years, too!" —But it isn't a squawk, at all. —It makes good copy—and good copy is what makes a column. —And I presume the exactly what the other fellow thought when he did it. —I mean the chap who drew several salutes from me just before he started a new job on a new rag. —My employer wondered what the idea was, anyway? —Me being so generous to a new paper in the same town—with his ink, paper and presses! —Nevertheless, I went ahead and banged the big drum about the new enterprise, welcomed it to the field. —New York newspapers just don't do that, and drew his thanks, etc. —So what happened? —So this happened. —One of the very first issues featured a blast at me—plus editorial comment about what terrible persons are my brand of paragraphers and other familiar wordage—aimed, of course, to peddle a few papers. —A form of holiday greetings, as it were.

TODAY'S PATTERN

Frock With Tricky Neckline

EVERYTHING unusual about the new frocks centers on the neckline! The interest may be part of the frock itself, or may be achieved by a fetching little collar. This trim model adopts both—and we think it the smartest thing we've seen in ages! The large figure shows a close-to-the-throat closing accented by snappy buttons. A sudden interest in the collar that will transform the frock in a jiffy. Clever isn't it? The sleeves, too, merit attention—with lower armhole and raglan fitting. Lovely in a new crepe, faille or sheer wool.

Pattern 1742 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2 1/2 yards 54-inch fabric and 3/4 yard 36-inch fabric and 1/2 yard 36-inch fabric. Three cups water.

SEEN in THE STORES

By SYLVIA

THE colorful rubber rain capes which swept into popularity a few months ago have lost their leadership because all of the smart gals now clamor for checked gingham. Raincoats, hats and umbrellas are all the rage for inclement weather. When spring takes the place of winter these sets are expected to be selling even better. Hats can be purchased either in the beret or vagabond types. Umbrella handles are of the predominant color which usually is red or brown.

Have you seen the new sweaters which have huzzas shaped yokes and fit in shaker fashion at the throat? Instead of curving downward and circling the collar bone the neckline curves upward in the direction of the tonsils. The result of this new style is to give emphasis to the shoulders. Tomato red is the most fascinating shade for sweaters of this style, especially when knitted of wool in the drop stitch design.

Gloves that have gauntlets that form a muff are the snuggest type of hand coverings for wintry days. The gloves are made of knitted wool and attached to the cuffs are extra cuffs of wool knitted to resemble astrakhan. When the wearer folds her hands together in a respectful manner the muff portions come together to give that muff appearance.

A large knitted square which boasts of a hand tied fish net pattern is about the smartest sort of accessory to wear with the wool sports frock. When thrown about the neck in the most approved manner the square is folded to form a triangle, draped across the front and tied with the ends hanging down the center of the back. Pastel shades as well as vivid ones are available.

For active sports wear outdoors in cold weather, an all wool sweater with an Ascot scarf attached is highly recommended. The scarf fastens at the back of the neck with three well concealed fasteners so that it may be left at home and the public will never miss it. Likewise the scarf may appear on many occasions when the sweater isn't needed.

Evidently the designers expect clever dressers to be waving the red, white and blue in celebration of the country's new alcoholic freedom. A sudden interest in patriotic color schemes has been observed since the fifth of December. A satin scarf that will add a gay, spring-like touch to a dark colored costume is styled diagonally with red, white and blue. This is a long, narrow scarf that will be attractive in several arrangements.

Those who look their best in the beige tones will be glad to see that fashion authorities are promoting beige for spring. One St. Louis store introduces a forerunner in the form of a three-piece suit. The suit is of tweed in a twist tone that is even lighter due to its flecks of white. The short jacket is very tailored, the top coat is long and boxy and the skirt is very straight of line.

The most fashionable spot to wear fabric flowers is directly under the chin. A corn colored flat crepe dinner frock gives a vivid demonstration. The neckline, of course, is quite high in front and nestling at its highest point are two large flowers, one white and the other blue. A sailor collar provides interest for the back of the bodice.

IF you walk into the Borsage home you will find dozens of histories on Napoleon. Frank, who has been assigned by Jack Warner to direct "Napoleon" is studying the character, the costumes and the habits of the little French General so that he won't slip up on any of the details. Directing this biographical screen play is a distinct departure for Mr. Borsage, who, heretofore, has been famous for the sweet, sentimental type of love story.

Uncle Carl's boy, Carl Laemmle Jr., general manager and vice-president of Universal to you, is going to Europe on a holiday. Junior, who is now 25, took over the reins of Universal when he was 21, and during the four years he has made consistently the best Universal product that has ever been turned out of this studio. His dad feels he is entitled to a vacation.

The wall from Maye Dressler fans that sounded around the world when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer experimented with drama for her, has had its effect. No more heavy drama for Marie, only comedy. The "fish" stories, bought so long ago from Mary Roberts Rinehart for the Dr. Jekyll-Moray combination, have been taken off the shelf by Irving Thalberg and will be put into production early next year.

There is a story and a new one on Dorothy Wilson. She is the secretary, taken from her typewriter by Radio who was put into the picture, "Age of Innocence." It was a flash in the pan for Dorothy and then she disappeared from view and did nothing else to merit our notice. Now she has just finished "Eight Girls in a Boat" in a role especially with those of the fair sex.

DEAL wisely and slowly with older people and old matters till mid-afternoon. If relations with women, regardless of your own sex, become fretful in the later hours, remember it could be somewhat your fault, too. Hold back.

Pictures of Perfection.

Although we have illustrated the subconscious mental workings of a portrait painter here during the last two days, we must not think the point involved applies solely to portrait painters. It applies to all of us. For instance, take the case of the mechanic. His subconscious mind sees the various parts working together harmoniously in the motor he must repair or he wouldn't know what to do to make it run. Any one can tell when the perfect mental picture of everything working correctly to be able to locate the reason why it won't go. Do this in your daily life; look ahead and visualize the effect you want to get; then analyze and learn the things to do to get that effect. Make pictures of perfection.

Your Year Ahead.
Keep up with the changes that are due in matters of estate and home life, if you acknowledge this natal day, for the year ahead will demand intelligent adapting to new ideas and new circumstances. Make sure the changes you make are worth while, for their effects are apt to be far-reaching. Guard capital. Danger: July 20 to Aug. 3, and Dec. 26 to Jan. 7, 1935.

From Black to White

FROM time to time there are reports of alleged miraculous changes of Negroes into white persons. Not infrequently such changes are ascribed to peculiar drugs, to fright, or other accidental circumstances.

A famous French scientist, Buffon, gave an interesting account of a Negro woman born in Virginia who began to go white about the age of 15 years of age, and who had lost all of her black coloring by the age of 40.

A complete change in the skin color of the Negro is not impossible, but is very rare. Partial bleaching is more common. When the disease known as leucoderma is said to be more common among the colored than the white races, but that is possible because it is more apparent in the darker groups.

The disease may manifest itself by the appearance of oval or circular white patches, usually on the back of the hands or on the neck, sometimes in fantastic designs.

It is this character of the disease that makes us suspect that it is due to some disturbance in the sympathetic nervous system, which affects the function of the skin in its pigment-containing layers.

Patients complain at times of a sense of burning or tingling in the areas affected. Beyond this there is no other symptom associated with the disease. The leucoderma patches may progress slowly or rapidly.

There is no known treatment. The leucoderma patches cannot be tanned by exposure to sunlight or to ultra-violet light. On the contrary, when the skin of the leucoderma patient is exposed to either of these tanning agents, the bleached patches remain pink while the surrounding healthy tissue becomes darker.

The disease presents a cosmetic problem, at times solved by the application of stains and powders to restore the color to that of the rest of the body.

COOK-BOOKS
By Ted Cook

Unless 200,000 bootleggers are given a chance to make a legitimate living, warns crime expert, this nation will face a terrific era of desperate crime.

Why not a "Hire a Bootlegger" movement? For instance if he got a job in a shoe store, the conversation would go something like this—

Customer—I want some heavy duty low shoes. Tan.

Clerk—Would you take a case?

Customer—No, just one pair.

Clerk—I could make you a good price on a case. How would you like a pair of high black shoes?

Customer—I want tan low shoes. Clerk—I can give you some tan low shoes. But they ain't as good as the high black shoes. We got our high black shoes straight from the factory—with the original laces. Lemme show you. Lookit the label—and the stamp on the sole. There's genuine black high shoes. I'd like to have you take a pair. Wear 'em. Then maybe you'll want a case.

Q. AND A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella—Is it proper for a man to apologize when he inadvertently uses strong language in the presence of ladies?

—Eddie.

Ans.—It's O. K., I guess. That is, if he's sure none of the ladies will be offended.

A. ("Safety First") Bella.

"I have not wavered from my course," says Senator Long of Louisiana.

All together now, folks: "Blush when you say that, Huey!"

Adam Scofflaw's Journal.

This evening my sassy plunk at my coat sleeve, poor wretch, she asking whether I will walk with her to the apothecary's or no, it being her purpose to spend the $5 bill I tucked in her stocking on Michigan and so we do go thither, but Lord! when she put nose to the apothecary's show case she cannot make up her mind what to buy and stand first on one foot and then on the other past nine of the clock, so we home without spending the $5 bill, for which heaven be praised!

BUGLE CALL

Why not change the name of the next Pan-American Conference? Call it the Pan America Conference.

They sniff at us in Europe, They sneer at us in Cuba And insult us when they can. It might be wise to merely Crawl within our ample shell And gaily let the blighters Coast along, down hill, to confusion.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Prohibition will be the main issue. The Smith-Raskob interests will dictate the Democratic presidential nominee. Owen D. Young will be nominated. The South will never support a wet candidate. —Bishop James J. Cannon Jr., June, 1932.

And what this world seems to need is more ideas that can be expressed without warring the arms.

LIVES OF GOOD EGGS LONGEST

Maybe so. But nevertheless, the race seems to be dying out.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

Psychologists have not developed adequate tests of the sense of beauty, although the MacAdory and the Meier-Seashore Tests of Artistic Appreciation are in that direction. Judging, however, by their past achievements in beauty, such as painting, sculpture, music and poetry, women either have a less keen sense of beauty or less desire for expressing it. However, the fact that women have had to spend their time and energy in bearing and rearing children has no doubt greatly lessened their possible achievements in art. But allowing for this, even in their own field of dress and feminine ornamentation nearly all the great dress designers and ornament makers are men.

No, for example the average person is far behind science in taking care of his health which is his highest moral duty; he pays almost no attention to the science of heredity in selecting his wife which is his supreme moral duty to his children and to the race; he learns little about social science which is his supreme duty to his fellow men; he has little knowledge of political science, which is his supreme duty as a citizen.

All that psychologists have learned indicates no. A group of psychologists has recently finished a great four-year research on tests for mechanical aptitude and their conclusion is that one may develop what talent he has but no effort will create it. This should discourage no one. What we can acquire as long as we live is knowledge which gives us increasing power to use the abilities with which we were born. Dr. Frederick Tilney, famous brain anatomist, maintains that few, if any, ever develop more than one third of these.

Best Climate in the World

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

CALIFORNIA and Florida papers will please copy climatic boasts of New York Chamber of Commerce:

We are running a temperature of three below zero.
Our courteous police will roll snowballs for you to throw.
Pick our fresh sun-kissed icicles off the trees.
All-year round bathing in the wash boiler in the kitchen.
Have you enjoyed the thrill of holding hands with mittens on?
Learn to skate on our rubber ice. It's like falling on balloon tires.
Dine outdoors on our roof gardens.
Frolic in our snowdrifts. They're ten feet high. But that's only a coat of talcum powder to New Yorkers.

Superintendent O'Malley Charges That the Company Is Insolvent and Asks That He Be Appointed Receiver.

SAYS ED MAYS REFUSED TO QUIT

Statement Petitioner Asks Head of Company and Grand National Bank Was Asked to Yield Both Places.

The Continental Life Insurance Co. was enjoined from continuing its business by Circuit Judge Hamilton this afternoon and E. B. Toler, superintendent of the office of State Superintendent of Insurance O'Malley, was named agent of the court to take charge of the company.

The court acted on a petition filed by O'Malley which alleged the insurance company was insolvent. O'Malley asked that he be appointed receiver for the company, that the court order it dissolved, and that Toler be named temporary agent of the court in charge of the company.

O'Malley issued a statement stating that it became necessary for him to take charge of the company "in view of certain things occurring during the past two days which vitiated the past conduct of certain officers of the company." He said Ed Mays, president of the insurance company, and president also of Grand National Bank, had agreed to divorce the management of the two institutions and that Mays had been asked also to eliminate himself from both, but had refused.

Deems Action Essential. "In view of the past management of the insurance company, which has been under his control, I deem it absolutely necessary in the interest of the policy holders, to take this action," O'Malley's statement added.

The petition states that O'Malley is of the opinion the condition of the insurance company is such as to render its further operation hazardous to its policyholders and the public.

"The company," the petition adds, "has for a long time past been grossly mismanaged that it is now insolvent or will become greatly impaired and insolvent if the present gross mismanagement continues for any length of time."

Continental Life Insurance Co. which has about $100,000,000 of insurance in force, occupies a tall office building at Grand boulevard and Olive street. The Grand National Bank, of which Mays is president also, occupies the ground floor of the building. The insurance company has about $680,000 of deposit in the Grand National Bank which has been in the hands of a conservator since March.

Criticizes Mays' Attitude. "The Grand National Bank could have been opened and deposited in full," the O'Malley's statement said, "had it not been for the prevailing attitude of Mr. Mays. I hope that the Grand National Bank may yet be re-opened in any event, the Continental Life Insurance Co. and its policy holders will be fully protected."

The Reconstruction Finance Corp. recently approved a loan of $100,000 to help in reorganization of the bank. Mays announced after publication had been made that he was to withdraw from the bank, that his withdrawal was a personal suggestion. He said he would remain with the Continental Life Insurance Co.

A plan of reorganization for the Grand National Bank and the United National Trust Co., with which it is affiliated, contemplates that the insurance company would advance $300,000 to a holding company which would use the money to take over assets of Grand National Bank. Stock of the new bank would be assigned to Wellington.
